CHEER PLAYERS AS GAME BEGINS

FORBES FIELD, Pittsburg, Oct. 8.—Forty thousand wildly enthusiastic baseball fans jammed into this new and beautiful baseball park to-day and yelled themselves hoarse as the first game of the world's championship series between the Pittsburg Nationals and the Detroit Americans was started.

The crowd was overwhelmingly partial to the Pirates, but several trainloads from Detroit made everybody know they were there rooting hard for the Tigers.

It was the largest crowd by far that ever saw a baseball game in this or any other country.

At noon the park presented a lively scene. At that early hour every seat in the ten-reserved section was packed with enthusiastic fans.

The playing field resembled a mammoth arena of old, ready for some Olympic struggle, with the seats facing a perfect amphitheatre for the spectators. There was little confusion; in fact the main entrance apeared somewhat deserted for no tickets were being sold there, and the entrances were plainly numbered so that the people had no difficulty in gaining admission.

Throng Jam the Gate.

At the general admission entrances, however, a different spectacle was presented. Thousands of eager fans still crowded about the gates, clamoring for tickets. A staff of experts were on hand to pass out the precious bits of pasteboard and they were gobbled up as fast as they could be handled.

The right field stand was a swirling mass of humanity. It had been packed for hours before the game began. The centre field bleachers were packed to their utmost capacity and the temporary seats erected all along the wall in left field to the south of the right wing of the big arena were crowded.

The park was admirably policed. Husky bluecoats patrolled short beats about the outfield, while others were stationed along the seats in front of the stand.

Cheers for the Players.

A mighty cheer went up at 12:30 when the first of the athletes made their appearance on the field. Hans Hyatt was the first man out, followed closely by Pat O'Connor and Bill Abstein. Then Jack Miller hustled out, as if ashamed of himself for not being the first on the lot. All were togged out in new white uniforms as clean as a pin, and each wore a neat grey sweater coat with a blue "P" on the breast.

Wagner Meets Cobb.

One of the pleasing incidents of the practice period was the meeting between Ty Cobb and Hans Wagner as soon as the latter came on the field. "Hans" walked over and grasped him by the hand. The two chatted together for three or four minutes. The fans saw the meeting and a cheer which made the welkin ring rent the atmosphere.

Umpires—Johnstone and O'Loughlin.

$10,000 FORFEITS POSTED BY PIRATE AND TIGER TEAMS

FORBES FIELD, Pittsburg, Oct. 8.—By order of the national comission the presidents of the Pittsburg and Detroit baseball clubs each posted a forfeit of $10,000 with the comission as guarantee that the world's championship games will be played throughout without interruption or argument. Chairman Garry Hermann said:

No altercations with the umpires will be permitted, and no team will be allowed to quit the game or walk off the field, as sometimes has been the case.

Although the opening game of the world's championship series was not to begin until two o'clock there were hundreds of women, some of them well dressed and refined, in the line about Forbes field to-day. They represented a small proportion of those who were disappointed when the supply of reserved seat tickets ran out.

Temporary seats had been built entirely around the playing field and a fence erected in front of them to keep the fans back off the territory to be used by the contesting teams. At noon the number of police was doubled, and half the supply then went to ride the park to preserve order.

That it will be a hard-to-hand fight all the way there is no doubt, and while the Pirates rate a 10 to 7 favorite, there are thousands upon thousands of Detroit admirers here who are gobbling up all the money they can get at these odds.

At 10 o'clock the ticket windows were opened, and for twelve hours before there was a mighty line waiting to get a chance to get their money down for a piece of pasteboard which would entitle them to a seat.

In fact, long before the sun set behind the Forbes hills there were hundreds of fans camping outside the grounds. Their pockets were bulging out with sandwiches and fruits, and they spent the night coddled up against the fence wrapped, the most of them, in nothing more than light top coats and smiles, for they figured that they had stolen the march and would be sure to get the pick of the few remaining seats the minute the windows in the ticket offices shot open.

This morning the Pittsburg club ap-

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The White Sox lined up against the Cubs to-day to play the first game of the series for the city championship. The rivalry between the teams and their partisans was keen and a big crowd flocked to the grounds to see the fun.

The Cubs have not quite forgiven the Sox for beating them in the world's championship series three years ago, and they were out this time to get revenge with a big H. On the other hand, the White Sox players said it would be the old story over again.

The betting was 7 to 5 in favor of the Cubs, and large sums of money were wagered at these odds and at 6 to 5. Practically every seat at both grounds has been sold for the entire series, and the owners and players will make a good thing out of the series.

The game began an hour and a half later than the Pittsburg-Detroit game, but the crowd was on hand early to watch the bulletin board which displayed the returns from the Sunky City.

WOMAN GUILTY OF P. O. MONEY THEFT

Mary E. Slattery of No. 1876 Beacon street, Brookline, wife of Jr. Joseph Slattery, an ex-priest, pleaded guilty in the United States District court before Judge Dodge to-day to defrauding the government by the use of money orders. The case was placed on file. She secured, so far as the authorities could learn, almost $15,

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 8.—The Red Sox and Giants opened their post-season series this afternoon in warm and pleasant weather. It was the first time on record that the Boston American League team ever played on the historic Polo Grounds, although several members of the squad had played here for other clubs.

The game here were scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock, but the crowd came early so they could watch the progress of the Pittsburg-Detroit battle on the bulletin board. The world's championship game began a half hour earlier than the Giants-Red Sox affair, so the game in the Smoky City was well under way by the time the fun began here.

Managers Lake and McGraw had their best teams out and the series was to be decided from the start. The great Mathewson was selected to go against the Speed Boys in the first game and the prospective battle was a drawing somewhat worried as to their ability to solve the curves of "Big Six."

Lake sent the Kettle Cicotte, the knuckle ball artist, to foil the Giants, he being the most considered pitcher in the Red Sox camp. It was thought the Giants would find the curves of their fellows in the way of box artists, but the local fans feared the batting ability and the speed on the bases of the visitors.

FUNERAL OF W. R. HOGAN.

The funeral of William R. Hogan of Dorchester, a letter carrier, was held to-day from the home of his father, No. 241 Adams street. At St. Peter's Church a high mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Florence Halloran. Burial was at Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

FOUR WOMEN DIE IN FIRE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 8.—The grocery store owned by J. A. Tines, on the corner of Eighth avenue north and Jefferson street, was burned at an early hour to-day and four persons perished in the building and one subsequently died in the City Hospital. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

Jim Butler and George Harrison, negroes, have been arrested and are held on suspicion. Mose Fleharon, with his wife and their relatives, were asleep over the store and some of them escaped. Fleharon himself got out of the burning building, but died in the hospital shortly after being carried there. The other dead are Mrs. Dora Fleisman, his wife; Miss Rose Fleisman, his sister; Mrs. Rose A. Fleisman, his stepmother, and Mrs. Rachel Markson, his sister-in-law.

JOS. H. O'NEIL TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Joseph H. O'Neil, former congressman and now president of the Federal Trust company, will be a candidate for Mayor. This is an authoritative statement.

If Plan One of the revised city charter is adopted by the voters at the state election next month, Mr. O'Neil will go before the Democratic convention with practically the solid backing of the Democratic City Committee. A canvass of that organization shows that 18 of the 25 ward committees are in favor of his nomination.

In the event of the adoption of Plan Two, Mr. O'Neil will run, and it is a certainty that the Democratic city organization will endorse him, will look after the signatures for his nomination petition, will aid in the conduct of his campaign and will attend to the practical work of getting out the votes for him on election day.

The declaration of Mr. O'Neil's candidacy and his attitude on municipal affairs will be made immediately after the State election. His decision to be a candidate, no matter which plan is adopted, was definitely made yesterday at a conference of some of the most influential politicians and business men of the city. Obedient to the wishes of his friends, Mr. O'Neil will withhold the positive declaration of his position until after the State election, inasmuch as it is deemed inexpedient to injject a mayoralty canvass into a State campaign.

Mr. O'Neil believes that the State issues should be fought out during the State campaign, and the questions involved in the two charter plans thoroughly explained, without involving the discussion of those questions with claims of candidates for Mayor.

DETROIT—PITTSBURG GAME.

FIRST—Davy Jones walked for a starter. Bush sacrificed him to second. Cobb got on base on balls. Crawford forced D. Jones at third. Delehanty singled, scoring Cobb. Moriarty singled, but the ball hit Delehanty, retiring the side. ONE RUN.

Byrne lifted a weak fly to Bush. Leach hit to Delehanty and was thrown out. Mullin threw out Clarke. NO RUNS.

SECOND—Tom Jones rolled an easy one to Byrne. Schmidt died the same way on the first ball pitched. Mullin singled to center. D. Jones died to Byrne. NO RUNS.

Delehanty threw out Wagner. Miller sent a line fly to Cobb. Abstein walked but was caught asleep. NO RUNS.

THIRD—Bush bunted and was out at first. Wagner took Cobb's grounder and got him at first. Crawford's hit bounded off Adams's glove and he was safe. Delehant flied to Clarke, a sensational catch. NO RUNS.

Wilson out at first. Delehanty threw out Gibson. Adams flied to D. Jones. NO RUNS.

HACKETT WINS MARATHON.

BROCKTON FAIR GROUNDS, Oct. 8.—William J. Hackett of North Weymouth won the Boston-Brockton twenty-five mile Marathon race this afternoon. He was a dark horse. Time, 2:37:26, two minutes under last year.

100,000 SEE FINISH OF GREAT MARATHON

Fully one hundred thousand people, with Governor Draper as the most distinguished of the throng, awaited the arrival this afternoon at the Brockton Fair of the big string of Marathon runners who started for that festival destination at twelve o'clock to-day from the Boston Athletic Association building on Exeter street. The distance of the course is twenty-five miles and the leaders were due at about 2:25 o'clock.

At 1:53 o'clock the leader had reached Randolph, about fifteen miles from the start. William J. Hackett of North Weymouth was the advance man, with J. P. Silva second. Then came Charles H. Appleyard of the Mercury Athletic Club, R. F. Piggott was fourth and L. Strydis of New York fifth. There were one thousand people at Randolph.

Made Fast Time.

Fully 600 people had gathered at Mattapan square, and when the racers had reached that point of the contest and it was found that T. H. Lilly, a Dorchester boy, was in the lead he was accorded a great ovation. There were cheering, handclapping, the tooting of automobile horns and shouts of verbal encouragement.

The run to Mattapan, a distance of eight miles, had been made by the leaders in about forty minutes—regarded as fast time. The leaders were pretty closely bunched. Just behind Lilly came W. Wilson of West Roxbury, who reached the square at 12:41. A minute behind him was William J. Hackett of North Weymouth.

Then in the following order came these racers: J. W. O'Meara, R. F. Piggott, L. Strydis, J. F. Silva, Charles H. Appleyard, A. N. Hawkins, Ernest Peabody and Samuel C. Pavitti.

Lilly was still ahead when the advance guard reached Milton Lower Mills, a mile and a half further on. Welcoming had dropped back from second to fifth place, leaving Hackett second man. O'Meara held his own and Sam Mellor also up into fourth place. There were about 250 people at Milton Lower Falls and they gave the boys a hearty send-off.

Cheered by a crowd that was estimated at 5,000, the Marathon racers left the Boston Athletic Association Building on Exeter street when the pistol cracked at noon. There were sixty-one starters out of seventy-four entrants.

All of the contestants were carefully examined before they began the long run by Dr. John H. Cunningham, Jr. The weather was a little too warm for ideal conditions and there were no particular favorites at the start.

T. H. Lilly of Savin Hill, one of the latest runners to enter the contest, was the first one away when the pistol cracked. Sam A. Mellor of Yonkers, who was fourth at the finish of last year's race, came next. Edward G. Ryder, the second winner last year, was well up in the forward bunch.

J. W. BARRIE TO WED "PINK PAJAMA GIRL" IN DOUBLE ROMANCE?

LONDON, Oct. 8.—A second romance in the life of James M. Barrie, the novelist and playwright, will become public if he wins the suit for divorce he has instituted against Ansell Barrie, his friends declared to-day. They tell a story of a love almost paternal developing into the kind that novels are written about. According to the latest story Barrie, if successful, will marry Miss Pauline Chase, the beautiful actress who has been regarded as the adopted daughter of the Barries.

There is no suggestion that Mr. Barrie brought the suit against his wife to pave the way for a second marriage, but it is affirmed that a second marriage will nevertheless follow the suit.

Gilbert Cannan, the man named by Mr. Barrie in his suit, according to report, was a suitor for the hand of Mary Ansel before she became Mrs. Barrie.

She was a well-known actress who took a leading part in Mr. Barrie's first play, which was produced seventeen years ago. Mr. Cannon is a novelist, playwright and dramatic critic.

Mrs. Barrie's friends, however, declare she is not the only one at fault—if either is at fault. They say Mr. Barrie's Scotch thrift caused the first rift in the lute. Mrs. Barrie had more liberal ideas of entertaining and spending money than her husband.

The personal interest which Mr. Barrie has taken in some younger actresses whom he has selected to play roles in his famous plays also occasioned some disputes, it is rumored.

No one there has any idea that this interest had any significance beyond the natural admiration of a playwright for a clever actress, such as the winsome Miss Pauline Chase, whom he and Mrs. Barrie practically adopted on her arrival in London. Mr. Barrie was her godfather when she was baptized a few years ago, and she added his second name, Matthew, to her own.

Mr. Barrie insisted on her taking the leading roles in several of his plays, among them "Peter Pan" and Pantaloon." Miss Chase is the original "Pink Pajama Girl" who made such a hit in New York in the "Liberty Belle" eight or nine years ago.

She was a mere child even when she made her London debut, and the Barries took her up immediately.

Miss Chase is said to be engaged to a young Englishman of her own age—but she is always reported engaged to somebody.

LETTER SENT TO PRESS BY FRIENDS OF BARRIE.

THE divorce suit of Barrie vs. Barrie and Cannan is down for hearing at the Michaelmas term. The plaintiff in the suit was in early life a distinguished journalist. More recently his work in fiction and the drama has given pleasure of a high order to hundreds of thousands of readers and spectators wherever the English language is spoken. He is a man for whom the inevitable pain of these proceedings would be greatly increased by publicity.

Therefore, it is hoped that the press, as a mark of respect and gratitude to a writer of genius will unite in abstaining from any mention of the case beyond the briefest report of the hearing. The suit is undefended, and, apart from the eminence of the plaintiff, raises no question of the slightest public interest.

$10,000 YEAR FOR $20 JOB

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—John T. George, until recently vice-president of the Harrington Leather Company of Elizabeth, N. J., at a salary of $10,000 a year, is now working in the company's factory as an ordinary laborer at a bench, marking leather—at a salary of $10,000 a year. The men on either side of him get $20 a week for the same work.

The Central Leather Company of New York—known as the Leather Trust—took over the Harrington Company last week and immediately made important changes, among them deposing Mr. George, who had worked his way from the bench to the vice presidency in the many years he was with the concern. They told George he must resign to make room for the new vice-president, Henry Stockman, of the United States Leather Company.

George said he would step down, but not out. He reminded the trust that he had a contract until next June to work for the Harrington Company at a salary of $10,000 a year and he proposed to continue to do so.

WANTED TO ELOPE BEFORE TRAGEDY

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Gustave Schwarz, the man indicted for the murder of Irving A. Nelson, the Islip, L. I., politician, tried to persuade Mrs. Nelson to elope with him to Germany three weeks before her husband was killed, it was learned to-day. District Attorney George H. Putnam of Suffolk county discovered, through one of the witnesses against Schwarz, at the grand jury hearing, that the accused man had so worked on the sentiments of Mrs. Nelson that she endeavored, as alleged, to get her husband to turn over a piece of property they jointly owned. The property was worth $1,200. Mrs. Nelson would neither deny nor affirm this at her home in Islip to-day.

SAVED FROM ARMED MAN

Cries for help coming from an upper window at No. 21 Fleet street caused Reserve Officer Joseph Ferrari of Police Station No. 4 to enter the house and force his way into the room. There he was surprised to see a man aiming a revolver at another man, who was crouched in a corner.

When the officer burst into the room the man with the revolver turned the weapon upon him. The policeman ducked his head, and, rushing at the man, disarmed him.

At the station the man who had the revolver said his name was Guiseppe Ancola and that he lived at No. 21 Fleet street. His victim, whose life was probably saved by Officer Ferrari, was Gilliano Bruno, who conducts a prosperous barber shop at No. 15 Fleet street.

BALLOONIST MIX ACCUSED

GENEVA, Oct. 8.—In spite of his record flight, Edgar W. Mix, pilot of the balloon America II, in the international race, may lose the championship cup. Rival pilots charge that he made an intermediate landing in Bohemia, which would disqualify him. His final landing place was Gutovan, Russia.

Captain Von Gugelberg of the organizing committee of the Swiss Aero Club, under whose auspices the race was held, to-day declared that the accusation against Mix was being investigated. How the American balloonist will fare is of course problematical, but there is a strong belief here that he will clear himself and gain the award.

PEARY CHARGED WITH CRUELTY

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 8.—Grave charges against Commander Peary to-day enliven the North Pole controversy. The latest champion of Dr. Cook is the Rev. Dr. Ludwig, a Greenland clergyman. In a lecture the minister declared that Peary had endangered the lives of several Eskimo women and children by leaving them on the ice without food. Peary took this action, according to his accusers, because he thought that the women and children hindered the progress of his expedition.

In the Greenland colonies Dr. Ludwig said the Danish authorities have received hundreds of complaints from Eskimos regarding Peary's alleged cruelty. The commander kept the natives dependent on him by preventing them having useful arms except in rare cases, the minister further charges.

Dr. Ludwig is a member of the Cape York mission, and knows both Peary and Cook. He says other explorers will corroborate his charges.

ENVOYS MEET IRISH CLERGY

KILLARNEY, Ire., Oct. 8.—Captain Edward O'Meagher Condon and John O'Callahan were guests the of Bishop Mangan at his palace here. A large number of clergy were invited to meet them. Bishop Mangan in an address expressed his appreciation of their work and felt that it would be of vast benefit to Ireland. He expressed the gratitude of the people in Ireland for the aid rendered to the national cause.

The bishop's address is regarded as the most significant pronouncement of the Irish hierarchy for years. Bishop Mangan bade godspeed to the work of the Irish party and the United Irish League of America.

A banquet will be tendered the men by Cork citizens Saturday night. Captain Condon and Mr. O'Callaghan will sail Thursday.

MISS ELKINS MET ABRUZZI IN LONDON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins, wife of Senator Elkins of West Virginia, and her daughter, Katherine, have arrived in Washington. It became authoritatively known to-day that during their recent visit abroad Miss Elkins met her former fiance, the Duke of the Abruzzi, in London. Rumors to this effect have been circulated during the Summer, coupled usually with hints that the engagement was to be renewed, but such publications were purely conjectural.

Miss Elkins and her mother on a date not made known left Paris for London, and about the same time the Duke landed at Marseilles and made his way to the British capital. There meeting took place.

In a reliable quarter the opinion is expressed that there has as yet been no renewal of the engagement which was broken last year as a result of many complications. Miss Elkins's lack of noble rank and the opposition in certain quarters both here and abroad to the match were only part of the obstacles which it was found impossible to overcome.

Those who have learned that Miss Elkins and the Duke really did meet have naturally been prompted to conjecture whether the way may not have been paved for an ultimate renewal of the engagement, even though that has not yet been done.

CIGARMAKERS AID SIX UNIONS IN NEED

Six checks, for sums ranging from $2 to $200 and amounting to more than $500 in all, were sent from the local headquarters of the Boston Cigarmakers' Union to-day to the unionists in need of assistance in other places, one being sent to Caguas, Porto Rico, in response to an appeal from the unions of that town on behalf of a consumptive cigarmaker named Juan Vins.

The largest donation went to the striking hatters, their check calling for $150, which makes a total of $2,800 the union cigarmakers of Boston have contributed for that purpose since the big strike started in that trade last January.

FENCE CONCEALS BROOKS STATUE

A high board fence running from the corner of the chapel to the end of the main structure of Trinity church has excited no end of comment, and passers-by have surmised much.

This unsightly barrier on the Huntington avenue side of Boston's most beautiful buildings has been erected in anticipation of setting up the statue of the late Phillips Brooks. On this side of the church there is a triangular plot which faces on Copley square, which affords ample room for the work contemplated.

SPIER SECRETARY OF TARIFF BOARD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Boston furnishes the new executive secretary to the Tariff Board, through the appointment of L. M. Spier to that position. The non-executive secretary came to Washington four and a half years ago when James H. Reynolds was selected as assistant secretary of the treasury. Since that time Secretary Spier has been intimately associated with the official duties of the treasury department.

DROUGHT RUINS CROPS.

MEREDITH, N. H., Oct. 8.—The worst drought in half a century is rapidly ruining the crops surrounding Meredith. Following last year's dry spell, which was itself a record breaker, it makes the outlook doubly hopeless. For miles about here the land is parched.

CZAR AND EMPEROR BACK RIVAL SUITORS FOR MARJORIE GOULD

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Two noblemen of the blood royal, one a kinsman of the Russian Czar, the other linked by the Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, have opened formal negotiations with George Gould, as suitors for the hand of his daughter, the winsome Miss Marjorie, according to cable advices received from Paris and London.

One is Francis Joseph, brother of Prince Miguel of Braganza, who recently married Miss Anita Stewart. The other is Prince Alexander Georgievitch Romanowski, who is also Duke of Leuchtenberg.

Both are preparing to visit America to lay their hearts and titles at the feet of the young heiress, who on her recent trip abroad is said to have turned half the coronated heads of Europe.

No Word of Engagement.

If ever an American girl lived in a real fairy story it is Miss Marjorie Gould. But the two knightly courtiers who ask the right to make her a Princess have yet to obtain the sanction of a father, who can never be blinded by the glitter of a coronet or the fame of titles.

George Gould, it is understood, received the overtures of the rival nobles with the courtesy which their royal backing demanded, but no word of encouragement is known to have been given by him.

The recurrent troubles of his sister, the former Countess De Castellane, now Princess De Sagan, could not help but make him refuse his consent without absolute assurance of his daughter's future happiness.

But after all, it is Miss Marjorie who must decide.

According to the advices from Paris, a representative of Prince Francis Joseph of Braganza made the formal application to Mr. Gould while the family was in that city last month preparing to return to New York. An attorney by the name of Thomas is said to have opened the negotiations.

Backed by Emperor.

There is also a report that the Prince De Sagan was appealed to and that he agreed to undertake the matter in behalf of the young Prince. But his wife, the former Anna Gould, protested. She said that since De Sagan had now gained the respect of George Gould by living within his income and amicable relations had been established she did not want him to interfere in a matter which might lead to trouble.

So De Sagan withdrew and Baron De Barille, a well known French aristocrat undertook the negotiations.

He wrote to Mr. Gould at the Ritz, asking an appointment for an interview and they met before the Goulds sailed for home.

Baron De Barille produced evidence that the Prince's suit was backed and encouraged by the Emperor Francis Joseph, who is the godfather of the young man.

Prince Plans Trip.

The Baron also gave assurance that Miss Gould would be made Princess of the Austrian court, the highest court in Europe.

Mr. Gould is said to have inquired about the settlements the might be expected and the Baron to have diplomatically replied that the best thing was for the young people to meet and see if they were congenial and the settlement could be discussed later.

An arrangement by which the Prince expected to meet Miss Gould at Ilhelmsbad, where she attended the aviation meet, failed because of his duties attendant upon his brother's wedding to Miss Stewart in Scotland. But he is now arranging to make a trip to the United States.

SAVAGE PRAISES NEW OPERA PLANS

Colonel Henry W. Savage paid a visit yesterday to Henry Russell, director of the Boston Opera Company, who took his guest to see the new Opera House on Huntington avenue. After looking over the theatre Colonel Savage said that it is not only the most beautiful playhouse in America, but also the most perfect theatre for the production of grand opera, and he, as a New Englander, is proud to hear of the splendid support Boston society and music lovers have given the new enterprise.

SCIENTIST CURES PARALYZED BOY

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Oct. 8.—Roused by the treatment of a Christian Science healer, after being in a state of almost complete paralysis of mind and body for more than a year, Leon Castine, the eighteen year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Castine of this town, appeared on the street to-day and greeted his old friends as though it were only yesterday that he parted from them. Prolonged treatment in a hospital failed to help him. Several weeks ago the family called in a Christian Science healer. Yesterday he startled his parents by crying out to them that he heard voices telling him that he could walk, and on being urged to try, he arose from his bed and walked about the room with his former strength.

KIDNEY OR BLADDER MISERY GOES AND YOUR LAME BACK FEELS FINE.

Hundreds of folks here are needlessly miserable and worried because of out-of-order kidneys, backache or bladder trouble.

If you will take several doses of Pape's Diuretic all misery from a lame back, rheumatism, painful stitches, inflamed or swollen eyelids, nervous headache, irritability, dizziness, wornout, sick feeling and other symptoms of overworked or deranged kidneys will vanish.

Uncontrollable, smarting, frequent urination (especially at night), and all bladder misery ends.

This unusual preparation goes at once to the disordered kidneys, bladder and urinary system, and distributes its healing, cleansing and vitalizing influences directly upon the organs and glands affected, and completes the cure before you realize it.

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary disorder, or feel rheumatism coming, begin taking this harmless medicine, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere else in the world which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Only curative results can come from taking Pape's Diuretic, and a few days' treatment means clean, active, healthy kidneys, bladder and urinary organs—and you feel fine.

Accept only Pape's Diuretic—fifty-cent treatment—from any drug store anywhere in the world.

SOUTH POLE IS GOAL IN RACE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—A race for the South Pole between American and British expeditions probably will result from the efforts of the National Geographical Society and the American Philosophical Society to induce the federal government to start or to aid a private expedition to Wilkes land.

Such an expedition would be a competition with the Scott British expedition, and the Americans would make every effort to reach the South Pole in advance of the Englishmen.

'WAR' SUCCESS, REPLIES WOOD

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The critics of the joint manoeuvres of the regular army and the National Guard who have been predicting that the Boston campaign of the past Summer will be the last of such joint operations because the hardship and suffering of the militiamen was all out of proportion to the lessons learned, were answered by Major-General Leonard Wood, commanding the Department of the East.

General Wood had paid no attention to criticisms until the publication of dispatches from Washington to the effect that while forces which now guide the War Department have their way there will be no repetition of joint manoeuvres on such a scale as took place in the limits of Boston this Summer. After reading these dispatches, General Wood said:

"The statement purporting to come from some one connected with the War Department at Washington relating to the hardship and suffering of the men engaged in the manoeuvres in Massachusetts has no foundation in fact. The amount of sickness was extraordinarily small.

"The report of Brigadier-General Pew, commanding the Blue division, which has just reached me says: 'The health of the men during the week under unusually severe weather conditions was excellent. In the entire division the were under 100 cases treated and these were mostly minor injuries such as sore feet and the like.'

FAMILY DROPPED IN DITCH FROM TAXI

James Curry of Roxbury, his wife, a three-year-old child and a young woman were thrown from a taxicab and severely bruised when the machine went over the edge of a thirty-foot embankment at Quincy, as they were being driven home from the Brockton Fair. E. J. Harkins, the chauffeur, was slightly hurt also. The accident occurred in the dark, when Harkins, on turning a curve, saw that the roadway was roped by two carriages, and, not knowing of the embankment, ran over its edge in an effort to pass the carriages.

IMPORTS INCREASE FROM PHILIPPINES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Imports into the United States from the Philippines under the new tariff law increased more than 100 per cent. in August, according to the Bureau of Statistics. The total value of merchandise in August, 1909, compared with August, 1908, shows an increase of $1,000,519. The principal articles imported were hemp, copra, cocoanut oil, paper stock, sugar, cheroots and cigars.

25 TYPHOID CASES IN SOMERVILLE

Twenty-five cases of typhoid fever existed to-day in Somerville, and health authorities believe that the present epidemic, which began about two weeks ago, is due to impure milk. Apparently enough, Dr. Julius R. Richardson, the city's inspector of milk, is himself a victim of typhoid and is seriously ill. The health officials are doing all in their power by a rigid investigation of the milk supply to check the spread of the fever.

ELDER RUSEAU SEES RUSSELL PHOTOGRAPHS, SAYS THEY ARE SON'S

The graphaited parents of James Delbert Ruseau created a sensation in the probate court at East Cambridge today when they entered the court room and were sworn as witnesses in the Russell will case. The father, James Ruseau, took the witness stand and identified four photographs alleged to be those of the claimant, Daniel Blake Russell, as pictures of his son James Delbert. Mrs. Ruseau will take the stand later today.

The lawyers for William C. Russell claim that Daniel Blake Russell is really James Delbert Ruseau and therefore an impostor in his claim for half of the $500,000 estate left by Daniel Russell of Melrose and now held by William C. Russell.

The father of James Delbert Ruseau presented the exact contrast to the pictures that have been drawn of his son from the description given by other relatives and friends. James Ruseau is barely five feet four inches in height. His shoulder just appeared above the rail of the witness stand when he testified.

He was asked if he recognized photographs of his son after he went West. "Yes, I got four or five," replied the father in a sharp, quick-spoken manner. Attorney Proctor then showed him the four in evidence. "Of whom do you think these photographs are?" he asked.

Identifies Photographs.

"That's the picture of my son, Jim, as far as I can see," he replied. "They're ni pictures of Jim."

The father and brother disagreed in their testimony in regard to the color of James Delbert's eyes. William Ruseau declared that they were gray. The father today said that they were brown. The father was examined by Attorney Proctor.

Q.—How long since you have seen James? A.—Fourteen years.

Q.—Where were you living at that time? A.—On the Grow farm in Hogansburg, New York. James was with us there for a year before he went away for the last time. He had trouble with his brother, William. Before he left he married the Carbine girl. They lived together for a year. Then Jim went away.

Q.—Did you hear from him often? A.—Yes, he wrote often.

Q.—Can you read? A.—No, I can't read or write.

The witness then identified the photographs in evidence.

Q.—How much did James weigh when you saw him last. A.—Oh, about 170 pounds.

Q.—Was he much taller than you? A.—Oh, sure, he was a good deal taller; he was 5 feet 11 inches.

This ended his direct examination and he was cross-examined by Attorney Stimpson, for Daniel Blake Russell.

Q.—Can you tell when your father was born? A.—No.

Q.—When were you married? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Do you remember very well how Jim looked before he went away. A.—Yes.

Says Eyes Were Brown.

Q.—Did he resemble you? A.—Oh, no, he looked like the "old lady."

Q.—What was the color of his eyes? A.—Dark brown.

Q.—Then when his brother William said that his eyes were gray he was wrong? A.—Yes, he was.

Q.—When was Jim born? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Then if you don't know when he was born, how do you know that he is about forty-four years old, as you have said? A.—Oh, I figured that from the time he was born.

Q.—But you just said that you didn't know when he was born. A.—Well, I had a record of his birth, but I lost it two years ago.

Q.—When was Dan christened? A.—When he was three months old.

Attorney Proctor arose at this point and asked Mr. Simpson if he didn't mean Jim. Mr. Simpson replied that he did, and then asked:

Q.—When I said Dan, why did you answer? A.—Oh, I knew what you meant.

Q.—Do you remember the name of the priest who christened him? A.—No.

Tells of Baptizal.

Q.—William said that Jim was baptized when he was thirteen? A.—Well, he was; he was baptized twice. (The first one didn't take, I suppose, said Attorney Simpson.)

Q.—You said he was christened in church? A.—No, he wasn't; he had a private one at home.

Q.—How about the second time? A.—I don't know about that. The "old lady" took him that time.

Q.—Do you know when Jim went to school? A.—No.

Q.—How long did he go? A.—Ten years in Messena.

Q.—Did you come here alone? A.—I came with a Pinkerton detective.

Q.—Were you promised anything for testifying? A.—Yes. My wife and I get $5 a day outside of our expenses.

Q.—Is that more than you can earn? A.—Yes.

Thomas Mullaly of Hogansburg, New York, was the first witness today. He testified that James Ruseau used to play the fiddle and identified the photographs in evidence as those of James Delbert Ruseau. He said that he and Jim Ruseau were Catholics and attended the same church. Under cross-examination he was asked:

Q.—Then if the claimant in this case is not a Catholic and never went to a Catholic Church, he cannot be the James Delbert Ruseau whom you knew? A.—No.

SENTENCE TEACHER AS COUNTERFEITER

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 8.—Confessing that he had made and passed counterfeit money, William R. Peters, a former school teacher of Carter county, Ky., was sentenced by Judge Sater in the Federal court to thirty months in Leavenworth, Kan., prison. Peters told the court that he entered the counterfeiting business because he wanted to get into jail "to keep from starving."

CABIN PASSENGERS FACE DEPORTATION

An appeal to Washington was all that saved six cabin passengers arriving on the Mesopotamo from Antwerp from deportation by the same ship. Two of them are women, and all are expert weavers. An immigration board ordered them deported, believing they were contract laborers. All hands denied the charge and at once entered an appeal to the Department of Commerce and Labor. They are held at Long Wharf pending the decision.

HOLYOKE MOLDERS STRIKE FOR RAISE

HOLYOKE, Oct. 8.—A refusal on the part of the management of the Deane Steam Pump Company to increase wages led to a strike of eighty-five molders and core-makers. The men asked for an increase of 25 cents a day, and negotiations have been pending for two weeks. The company employs about eight hundred men, and it was stated that it would probably continue, notwithstanding the strike.

POLICEMAN EXONERATED

Patrolman John C. Miller of Division 11, against whom charges were preferred of striking and kicking a boy in Dorchester, on September 8, was exonerated by a trial board consisting of Police Captains Gaskin, Hall and Brickley. The patrolman is a cousin of ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

B. & A. TO BUILD NEW STEAMER PIER

Announcement is made to-day that the Boston & Albany Railroad is to build a new steamship pier east of that to be occupied by the Leyland line in East Boston. The contract is let to W. L. Miller of this city. A large party of New York Central officials, headed by William C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines, made the announcement immediately upon the completion of a tour of inspection. The East Boston railroad and steamship terminal is to cost the New York Central $4,000,000.

ANCIENTS ARRIVE HOME AT 8 P. M.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The train bearing the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company arrived here on time—at 7:30 o'clock. The run from Toledo had been made in good shape, but at Buffalo the train, in shifting, was given some hard bumps, and every man was kept awake during the process. The four men who were left at Chicago joined the train at Toledo. The company will arrive at the North Station, traveling over the Fitchburg division, at 8 o'clock this evening.

The G. A. Taggart Veteran Firemen's Association of Eaststown, N. H.; the Uncle Sam Veteran Firemen's Association of Manchester, N. H., and the T. W. Lane Association of Manchester, N. H., parade from the North Station to the South Station to-day on their way to Brockton Fair, where fifty-four tubs take part in a playout.

REBUILD OLD ROAD.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 8.—The stockholders of the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad at their annual meeting voted to rebuild the abandoned section of their road from Candia to Suncook, if the Boston & Maine officials agree to the proposition. The section was abandoned in 1853. If rebuilt the road will shorten the run from Portsmouth to Concord eight miles and will leave this city off the line.

JOKE SPRUNG ON PUBLIC BY R. R. BOARD

The Board of Railroad Commissioners in a recommendation to the Boston Elevated Railway Company made to-day says that the whole transportation system between the Park street station of the old subway and the South Station, is grandiloquent, and that, ultimately, improved facilities for the traveling public should be secured.

It then seriously suggests as a means of determining whether there is a real demand on the part of the traveling public for transfer service from the Park street subway station to the South station one of the best jokes that has ever been attempted in the city of Boston. The recommendation proposes that people who half pen to be in the vicinity of Tremont and Winter streets shall down into the Park street subway station, pay a ticket, go to Boylston street station, walk up a big flight of stairs, cross Boylston and Tremont streets to a point in front of Hovey Tontaine, wait for a South Station car to take them to that point through Boylston, Washington and Summer streets, when, as a matter of fact, people in the vicinity of Tremont and Winter streets can walk through Bromfield street in two minutes, secure a car at the corner of Summer and Washington streets and reach South Station by traveling one-fifth the distance and in one-fifth the time.

At the present time people going from the South Station to points in a southerly direction from Boylston street station, and coming from Cambridge, Brookline, Back Bay and other points in that direction to the South Station are provided with transfers from the subway to surface cars and from surface cars to the subway. The number of transfers since this system was put in operation have averaged about 5000 a day, or practically one for each surface car trip.

When the new tunnel was opened for business, and the direct subway and elevated connection between Park and Boylston streets and the South Station were cut off, there was a great public clamor against this interference with popular service. Public meetings of indignation were held, and many petitions were filed with the Railroad Commissioners. Now, as a result, the Railroad Commission in all seriousness offers the joke proposition that, for an experimental period, a record be kept solely of the passengers who go from the Park street station to a roundabout way to the South Station when they could more readily walk from Bromfield street or take a car from Washington and Summer streets. The elevated officials will be only too glad to comply with such a recommendation.

TOOK CHLOROFORM; WILL RECOVER

An unidentified man, about thirty years old, was found in a room at No. 24 Mount Auburn street, Cambridge, and taken to the Cambridge Relief Hospital, suffering from the effects of chloroform poisoning. A bottle marked chloroform was found by his room. At the hospital the man refused to give his name, but later told a nurse that his name was William Knapp. He will recover.

VOTE TO REBUILD ABANDONED LINE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 8.—Stockholders of the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad, at their annual meeting, voted to rebuild the abandoned section of their road from Candia to Suncook, if the Boston & Maine officials agree to the proposition. The section was abandoned in 1853. If rebuilt the road will shorten the run from Portsmouth to Concord eight miles and will leave this city off the line.

MACHINE TRIES TO STOP FIGHT IN CONVENTION

Democrats of Suffolk County, through delegates, chose a candidate for District Attorney to-night in Faneuil Hall. The political weather-vane points to-day, as it has pointed for the last ten days, to the choice of Joseph C. Pelletier, member of the State Civil Service Commission and national advocate of the Knights of Columbus. Aside from the choice of Pelletier, the indications are that almost anything else may happen.

The one thing most certain is that to-night's convention will not be a tame affair. City politicians say that it looks like a fight from the moment the convention is called to order. The night, according to wise ones, is going to know, will not end when the convention ends. It will be continued, they say, right up to the time of the polls on election day, November 2. The only difference will be that the fighting will be done more quietly after the convention.

Will Present Hill's Name.

Friends of Attiney Delos Hill, the present District Attorney, and the Republican machine to succeed himself, said to-day that his name will be offered in to-night's Democratic convention. Just how many votes Mr. Hill will get in the convention may only be guessed at. It is an open secret that some of the men who will cast the delegates bow to vote to-night have voted for Mr. Hill that they will be with him on election day no matter who the candidate may be.

Felix W. Mesmerick, assistant district attorney under John B. Moran and a candidate for the Democratic nomination now, two days ago, will have some friends in to-night's convention. Just whom they will vote for is a mix-up. McGerrick's desk to the bosses when he withdrew from the contest indicated that his delegates will be for an anti-boss candidate. Patrick H. Kelley of Dorchester has waged a vigorous one-man campaign for the nomination. The men behind the Pelletier candidacy announced, however, when the Pelletier boom was first displayed, that they had an understanding with Mr. Kelley and that the latter would quit out for harmony's sake. Mr. Kelley is apt to have something to say on the floor of the convention to-night.

Barry Stays In.

Councillor Edward P. Barry of South Boston is also apt to have something to say. The Pelletier folks tried to-day to secure Mr. Barry's withdrawal. Mr. Barry told them that he wants the nomination, even though he knows that the Democratic candidate for District Attorney is due for a pasting at the polls.

The leaders of the Boston Democratic machine have worked like beavers in an effort to stave off as far as possible the threatened free fight in to-night's gathering. They recognize that a convention built upon the lines of votes for Dan Coakley is attempting convention system. Just how far succeeding a free-fight and in some way keep the public from thinking that the gay old convention spirit and the whip cracked is what puzzles them.

Nearly everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

CELEBRATE FATHER MATHEW'S BIRTHDAY

Commemorating the 120th anniversary of the birth of Father Mathew, the Irish temperance apostle, the members of St. Patrick's Total Abstinence and Literary Society will hold a celebration in Intercolonial Hall, Dudley street, Roxbury, next Monday night. There will be a number of new and novel features on the dance card, prominent among which will be a whirlwind two-step. The proceeds of the affair will be used for the purpose of promoting the principles of the organization in the district.

NAVAL OFFICERS DINED

Upon the arrival of the cruiser New Orleans at the Charlestown Navy Yard, Lieutenant Frederic Kensel, officer of the day at the marine barracks, entertained at a dinner Stephen Decatur, the gracious of Commodore Decatur of the Battle of Tripoli fame, Lieutenant Franklin B. HARBOR FORTS BEGIN TARGET PRACTICE

Fall target practice with the big guns has started in the harbor forts. Exceptionally good work was done by the artillerymen. The 30th Company, C. A. C., under command of Lieut. G. T. Harris, made a fine record with the 12-inch mortars.

The 124th company, C. A. C., commanded by Capt. B. T. Mathews, broke the record for six-inch rapid fire guns. Firing ten shots with a scarf of ten hits in one minute and forty-six seconds at mid-range.

SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED FOR YEARS

Child of Four Would Scratch Her Head for Hours—When Fifteen It Got Worse—Hair Came Off in Spots—Hundreds of Dollars Spent in Vain—Cuticura Soothed Like Cold Water on a Burn and

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURED HER AT LAST

"When I was four years old a humor came out on my scalp. It would make a thick scab on the scalp, itching and burning terribly. My father spent many hundreds of dollars trying to find a cure, but nothing helped the humor, but none of them could ever help it even a little bit. At the age of fifteen years I had the measles, and after that the sore became matured and I had to scratch my head before I could comb it. My hair came off in spots and my head was in a bad shape.

"About this time a friend of my father suggested he try Cuticura for me. My father took this advice and bought the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them faithfully and to my surprise they stopped the itching at once, like cold water to a burn. In a week my head was clean from the scab but was very red and inflamed, but I had experienced more relief from the terrible itching and burning than ever before. I did not expect to be cured, as I thought that nothing could do that, but I had to use something all the time and Cuticura was cheaper than doctors.

"After some months, to my surprise, I awoke to the fact that my head was cured. It was as free from the disease as though I had never suffered. I am now forty-two and have never had any sign of my old trouble since I was cured. I owe health, happiness and life to Cuticura. Every one thought it was incurable. I used to dream sometimes that I was cured but thought it never could be. Cuticura made the dream come true. Fancy a child sitting up in bed until ten or eleven o'clock scratching her head! I couldn't help it either, the itching was so terrible, night and day. It is a wonder I lived through it, but I can prove all I have written by my father and mother." Nervous Dyspepsia and Neurasthenia

Weakness of the Nervous System Often Dependent Upon Long-Continued Indigestion.

Neurasthenia, also known as "nervous exhaustion," "nervous debility," and "nervous prostration," is a disease which in these modern, strenuous times is becoming more and more prevalent. It is a condition in which there is more or less marked and persistent loss of energy, together with considerable irritability.

Persons who suffer from this trouble are easily excited and irritated; cannot do as much work as formerly, and in attempting any mental effort quickly become confused, and are unable to concentrate the attention. They also complain of insomnia, nervous indigestion, depression of spirits, and palpitation of the heart.

There is a general muscular weakness; the person cannot walk very far and tires quickly on attempting physical exercise. There is ringing in the ears; blurring of eyesight; headache and vertigo; specks floating before the eyes, and a general nervousness. The ability to sustain prolonged intellectual effort is interfered with, and the patient imagines he is losing his memory.

Neurasthenics continually watch for new symptoms, unconsciously exaggerate the old ones, attaching undue importance to them. Causeless fear is often suffered from; a dread of some impending danger; extreme pessimism; dark forebodings and hysteria. Sleep is not refreshing, and the person feels much more tired in the morning than at night. Horrible dreams and nightmare are usually complained of.

But by far the most prominent manifestation of Neurasthenia is Nervous Dyspepsia. In nearly every case this disturbance of the stomach dominates the complaint. Cause and effect may be transposed, and dyspepsia may be the result of Neurasthenia, but oftener indigestion is the original cause of the nervous condition. The nerves are simply "starved" because the stomach does not digest the food properly, and as the nerves are dependent upon the food which the blood absorbs from the stomach for their sustenance, any deprivation thereof is sure to cause nerve weakness.

The use of "nerve tonics" in this condition is a mistake; they merely stimulate, but do not rebuild nerve tissue. Completely digested food is the only true nerve builder and strengthener, and in the treatment of nervous exhaustion one should first cure the nervous dyspepsia, which is usually the origin of the trouble, by taking STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS in doses of one or two after each meal, or whenever needed, and the long train of nervous symptoms will be cured along with the nervous dyspepsia.

This celebrated remedy is without a peer in the treatment of nervous indigestion and, in fact, indigestion of any kind. They digest all the food with great thoroughness and facilitate its absorption by the blood, which carries it to the weakened, diseased nerves and builds them up, so that every symptom of Nervous Exhaustion is gotten rid of.

WIDOW WILL FOLLOW PLANS OF HARRIMAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Edward H. Harriman, widow of the railroad head, to whom he left all his $150,000,000 estate, finally has determined to complete the construction of the vast mountain palace at Arden, N. Y., where her husband died, and make it her chief abiding place. The news of her decision was obtained to-day from Charles T. Ford, general superintendent of Arden farms.

By the completion of Arden House and of the elaborately planned improvements of the 47,000-acre stretch of mountain and meadow land which the palace overlooks, Mrs. Harriman will become the mistress of one of the world's most costly country homes. Its final cost, it is estimated, will reach $10,000,000.

"In view of the many conflicting and erroneous statements printed concerning the future of Arden House," said Mr. Ford, "I will say that all of Mr. Harriman's plans for its completion will be carried out by his widow. There is still so much to be done that the work will doubtless take two or three years more."

The announcement of Mrs. Harriman's desire to finish the task begun by her husband, which will entail an additional expenditure of $2,000,000 or $3,000,000, will be joyously received by the county folk of the Ramapo Valley. The payroll of Harriman's employes during the past year averages $18,000 a week. Upon Mr. Harriman's death the report was persistently circulated that the army of workmen would be discharged, or at least curtailed to such a degree that it would amount to a considerable catastrophe in their lives. The town of Turner, on the main line of the Erie Railroad, about a mile from the inclined tramway to the Harriman mountain mansion, also will be rejoiced by the news that Mrs. Harriman intends to make Turner, instead of Arden, the station which will be ordinarily used by the Harriman household. A special roadway, almost as straight as a ruler, is to be built from Turner to the foot of the incline.

NEWTON PASTOR TO AID HEIRESS SUED BY WIFE OF 'NIBLO THE PALMIST'

A sensation was caused in Newton religious and social circles today when it became known that the Rev. Allson H. Robinson, the young pastor of the Unitarian Church of Newton Centre, was until recently engaged to be married to Miss Antoinette Elizabeth Gazzam, the Hudson River heiress, who has been sued for $150,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of Marshall Clark, known as "Niblo, the palmist."

Miss Gazzam has been in Boston since July 23, shortly after the suit was brought against her, according to the Rev. Mr. Robinson. She is accompanied by a chaperone and is living quietly at the public house.

The young clergyman says that he will go to New York on Sunday and do all in his power to save Miss Gazzam from an ordeal which he declares has been done here in the insinuations that have been made in the suit brought by the wife of the palmist.

A Dramatic Declaration.

According to Mrs. Clark, who filed the suit, Miss Gazzam said to her:

"I care nothing for you tears of blood and what I want is this and I am going to have what I want."

On this point the young clergyman has this to say:

"Eventually Miss Gazzam may be. All who know her will admit this much. But that she would stoop to do any intentional thing is incredible."

The clergyman would not tell why the engagement between him and the heiress was broken last Christmas. He declined that on the ground that the matter was personal, because of he had he could have had it long ago. The Rev. Mr. Robinson, in an interview, said:

"Our acquaintance with Miss Gazzam began with my going to Newburg to fill the pulpit left vacant by the death of the Rev. John Brenner three five years ago. I was just out of a divinity school and it was my first pastorate.

Death Bed Betrothal Denied.

The popular impression existing in Newburg and Cornwall, that Miss Gazzam joined Antoinette's hand and mine as she lay on her death bed and asked me to look out for her daughter, is untrue. That I was to take especial care is perfectly false. Mrs. Gazzam's father, Mr. Abraham, divorced in 1892, from kidnapping her, to ridiculous.

"The truth is I did happen to be present at Tremaren when Mrs. Gazzam passed away. But she was unconscious when I saw her.

"I will not deny that there was an understanding between Mrs. Gazzam and myself, but our talk on this subject antedated her death by six months.

"It is true that almost immediately after Mrs. Gazzam's death in July, 1907, my engagement to Antoinette was announced. What led up to the breaking of that engagement on Christmas last year I have never told any one, and I don't propose to right now. If it is true Miss Gazzam has admitted it was not she who took the initiative. I can only say that it is she who gives this information. I am positive she has never told the real cause of our separating.

Safeguard for Fortune.

"But I will say that from the very first I argued strongly against Miss Gazzam's putting her entire fortune in the hands of one man. I told her again and again that on general principles it was a dangerous not to say an unwise thing to trust a fortune of a million dollars or more to any one man's keeping. It was a very loose arrangement and I opposed it always.

"And in that connection I should say out of justice to myself that if it had been necessary I was fully I could have had it years ago. The fact that I haven't it is the best proof in the world that I had no mercenary motive in my relations with the young woman.

"We never announced the breaking of the engagement. It became known at Christmas time. I send my resignation to Aurit 1 this year. But I did not leave Newburg with any thought of marriage. Then I came to this little suburb and took up the duties of the church here.

"I thought as did all the rest of Newburg and Cornwall, that Miss Gazzam was abroad immediately after the rest of the year. Of course, we all know she did not.

"So far as her actions with this psychic are concerned I am positive the young woman never consented to violate in the least her own principles in which she held with a greater strength of purpose than almost any man or woman I ever knew.

"I am so thoroughly convinced of this that I shall go to New York as soon as my duties here Sunday are finished. I shall there consult a suit to show judgement I have the greatest faith. On his decision I shall base my future behavior. If there is any way to save this young woman from a rank injustice I shall certainly do all in my power to prove the falsity of the charges made against her."

DIVORCE PLEA OF WALTHAM COUPLE HELD UP BY COURT

MRS. ODRA GOULD

Judge Sanderson, who is presiding at the divorce session of the Superior Court at East Cambridge, has taken under advisement the cross libels of Mrs. Odra E. Gould and her husband, George E. Gould of Waltham. Mrs. Gould, whose maiden name was Taylor, charges cruel and abusive treatment and nonsupport. Her husband charges her with a statutory offense. Mrs. Gould testified in court she was making more money than her husband was able to earn.

GLADYS ROOSEVELT SAVES BIKE RIDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Miss Gladys Roosevelt, a relative of the former President, showed her courage and skill at Sayville, L. I., to-day by averting an automobile accident. An elderly man riding a bicycle ahead of her suddenly turned squarely across the path. Miss Roosevelt threw her steering wheel over, just missing the rear wheel of the bicycle. The rider, thoroughly frightened, lost control of his wheel and was thrown over the handle-bars, and for a moment he lay half stunned.

NOVA SCOTIAN STATESMAN STRICKEN DEAD

The refusal of Mrs. Ada McLean Pratt, a widow living at No. 60 Winthrop street, Cambridge, to discuss the sudden death of her house of the 27th, W. F. Pipes, of Halifax, Attorney General of Nova Scotia and Representative of Cumberland County in the Canadian Parliament, shrouds the affair in mystery which the police of Cambridge are attempting to solve. Dr. Augustus of Washington terrace, who was called to attend the dying man, declined to give any details of Mr. Pipes's death, excepting to admit he called at the house a few minutes before the Attorney General died.

A son of the dead man is hurrying from Amherst, N. S., to claim the body and arrange for taking it back to Nova Scotia for burial.

Mr. Pipes, who was one of the oldest and most highly respected public men in Eastern Canada, dropped dead while calling on Mrs. Pratt, a friend of his boyhood days. The woman was the daughter of the late Sheriff McLean of Cumberland County. According to Mrs. Ellen Young, who lives in a house with Mrs. McLean, Mr. Pipes went direct from the train to the house.

He had only been in the house a short time, she says, when he complained of a congested feeling in the chest and lay down on the couch in the parlor. Mrs. Pratt rushed out to the kitchen to get him some water, and when she returned Mr. Pipes was dying.

It was not until then that the two women realized how seriously ill their guest was and Dr. Augustus was called, and after a few moments Mr. Pipes died. Dr. Augustus notified Medical Examiner Durell, who pronounced death due to natural causes, probably heart failure.

When a reporter called at the home of Mrs. Pratt he was met by a woman who said she was a friend of the family and would talk but against orders. Asked against whose orders she was talking, she refused to say.

She said that as soon as Mrs. Pratt realized that Mr. Pipes was seriously ill she called in the services of Mrs. Brown, a trained nurse, who lives on the second floor. She said that Mrs. Brown did all she could to relieve the dying man and that then Dr. Augustus had been sent for.

Mrs. Pratt is a widow and has two sons, aged twelve and seventeen, and is about fifty-five years of age. She lived in the entire rear ground floor of a three-story brick apartment house. In the window of the apartment is a card with the announcement that piano lessons are given inside.

A Chemist's Discovery.

A NEW DRUG FOR ALL FORMS OF ECZEMA AND OTHER SKIN TROUBLES.

The most remarkable feature about Cadum, the new remedy for skin diseases, is that its beneficial action is seen in every case where it is applied. So far as is known a single ailment has been found where it failed to stop the terrible itching of eczema at once. People who have been afflicted with eczema for years, and have tried everything they heard of without being relieved, should take fresh courage, for this new remedy Cadum is altogether different from all other so-called skin cures. It is the discovery of a chemist, who felt for years that the world needed a cure for eczema and other skin diseases, and as a result of his studies and experiments Cadum was the outcome. It is reassuring to be told that this new preparation, while possessing such remarkable powers in overcoming all forms of skin troubles, contains no dangerous ingredients. When applied over unsightly sores on the face and hands it forms a thin, almost invisible covering, so that the disease is covered up while the healing process is going on. The 10c. size is intended for trial purposes by those who wish to test its wonderful virtues. It contains a sufficient quantity of the new remedy to treat minor skin troubles, such as tetter, rash, pimples, eruptions, itch, ringworm, scaly skin, acne, herpes, psoriasis, etc. It should always be borne in mind that Cadum is an entirely new remedy. Nothing like it was ever before offered the public. Cadum has so thoroughly demonstrated that eczema is now a curable disease that there is no excuse whatever for any man, woman, or child suffering from it. The discovery of this new remedy is surely one of the great achievements of the century. Cadum is sold by druggists at 10c. and 25c. a box.

MOTORMAN FREED IN GIRL'S DEATH

Michael Barnacle, the motorman whose car ran over and killed eight-year-old Nora Medico in Roxbury, last Friday night, was discharged in the Roxbury court. The evidence showed that the girl ran in front of the car, and that it would have been impossible to have prevented her death.

HEADACHES AND DIZZY SPELLS

Were Caused by a Bloodless Condition in This Vermont Girl's Case.

Anemia is simply lack of blood.

It is one of the most common and dangerous diseases with which growing girls suffer.

It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls are too frequently allowed to overstudy, overwork and suffer from lack of exercise. It is dangerous because of the steadiness of its approach, often being well developed before its presence is recognized, and because of its tendency to grow so steadily worse, if not promptly checked, that it may run into consumption.

Miss Julia V. Monahan, of No. 161 Granger street, Rutland, Vt., took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the early stages of anemia and was undoubtedly saved from a long sickness. She says:

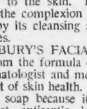
"In the fall of 1906 I was very much run down from overstudy. The doctor said I had anemia but his medicine did not seem to help me. I grew pale and became very thin. I had headaches every few days which made me feel sick all over. My appetite was poor and what I ate didn't seem to agree with me. Occasionally I had dizzy spells and was confined to the bed for two weeks.

"A cousin, who had been benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, advised me to give them a trial. I did so and had taken them only a short time when I began to have some color in my face. The headaches left me so I continued with the pills and I have been well ever since. I hope that other girls, who are suffering as I did, will take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The treatment of anemia with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything in medical science. They act directly on the blood, which they purify and build up to its normal strength.

They have also cured rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers, stomach trouble, nervous breakdown, sick headache, St. Vitus' dance and neuralgia. A booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free to any sufferer from anemia upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.



If you don't see this trade-mark on the label, it's an imitation.

PROVE KILLING BY STAINS ON GREEK'S DIRK?

HAVERHILL, Oct. 3.—"I believe that my brother was murdered. I am satisfied that I know the person who did it. I shall not rest until the body of my brother is found, and then I will see that his assassin gets the punishment that it coming to him."

This statement was made to-day by Efstathios Chasiotes, the nineteen-year-old brother of Constantinus Chasiotes, who has been missing since Sunday, and who is believed to have been murdered for money he carried. Christas Chapas, who is now under arrest on the technical charge of larceny, and with whom he last seen to be with the missing man, is suspected of knowing something of the movements of Chasiotes on Sunday evening.

Should the body not be found by Sunday more than 1,000 Greeks from here, Lawrence, Manchester and other cities will join the brother in search for the body. It is now believed that the man was killed and his body thrown into the Merrimac river. Both Silver Hill and the river are being searched to-day.

Will Examine Dirk.

Inspector Shannon of the Haverhill police is to-day working on a new clew submitted to him by Angelo Romeos of Boston, who is a graduate in chemistry from Paris, that marks on the dirk discovered in the effects of Chapas are really blood stains. The dirk will be submitted to chemical analysis.

The police are seeking an explanation of the $80 found on the person of Chapas when he was arrested as he was about to leave South Station for New York. In the eighteen months that Chapas has lived in Haverhill he was known to have worked about eight weeks, and the remainder of that time he is said to have existed on the charity of his friends.

Monday he appeared with money and surprised the colony by entering a Greek restaurant home and buying every in the place to drink something with him. He explained that he was preparing to leave for Greece.

The sudden affluence of Chapas, coming on top of an announcement that he had secured employment, came as a distinct surprise, and when Chasiotes was missed a search for Chapas was immediately made, and he was taken in charge in Boston as he was about to board a train.

These Greeks who arrested Chapas without police aid now remark upon the money found on his person. This money was mostly in bills of $5 denomination, and was peculiarly rolled, as if it had been suspended in a bag.

Carried Money Around Neck.

Chasiotes was known to have carried his money in a bag suspended from his neck, with the bag stuck in an inside pocket of his undershirt.

A week ago Chapas sold to Chasiotes a razor, strop and pair of scissors, and the money to pay for this came from the "roll" on the latter's person. Chapas finally there had been $165 in this "roll," and $70 of this had been loaned to a friend recently.

The enemies of Chapas in the Haverhill Greek colony point to a letter in his effects from his mother in Greece, in which his mother asks him to return home, explaining that all he has to fear is a sentence of one year for shooting a man.

Another letter acknowledges receipt of $50, and still another complains of not having heard from him for a long while.

Men Were Best of Friends.

Friends of Chapas paid his board bill for him in Haverhill Saturday night on the strength of his statement that he was going to work on Monday. Yet, a week before he had sold his household belongings, bedding, etc., saying that he was going to Greece.

He had a room adjoining that of Chasiotes, and the two were friendly, but never were seen on the street together until the day of the disappearance of Chasiotes. On that day the two were in a party of four that went upple picking about noon, but all returned.

A NEW CLUB FOR BOSTON NEWSBOYS

A new club, with some of Boston's best known men as officers, is membership list that may reach into the thousands, is in process of organization.

It is to be devoted to Boston newsboys and quarters will be built for a living under similar conditions, and its clubhouse will be located on the property of the Children's Mission, No. 27 Tremont street. The officers of the latter institution have co-operated generously with those who have the success of the new club at heart.

The Boston Newsboys' Club will be the name of the new organization. Its officers are the following: President, Nathan L. Amster; vice-presidents, S. P. Kelth and James J. Phelan; treasurer, James J. Storrow; secretary, Alexander I. Peckham. A board of trustees to manage the club is composed of the above named officers, with these others: Mitchell Pierson, David A. Ellis, William F. Fitzgerald, Herbert D. Hollfield, James P. Munroe, Edward A. Filene and Frank A. Schirmer.

In planning the new clubhouse, the building of the Children's Mission is being extensively remodeled, and an annex is being added as well. When the work is completed there will be large assembly rooms, play rooms, shower baths and club rooms. A large yard or court will enable the members to engage in outdoor sport.

RENEW HUNT FOR LOST TECH GIRL

Following the discovery of a list of Boston boarding houses among the effects of Miss Elizabeth Johnson, who disappeared about August 12, and the declaration of Edward Edwards of No. 14 Arundel street, Roslindale, that he saw Miss Johnson on Appleton street between August 15 and 20, searchers for the girl to-day took up the hunt with renewed hope. They are making a tour of the boarding houses listed among her effects.

Edwards is the janitor at the Technology building, where Miss Johnson was employed as librarian.

17 HURT BY AUTO WRECK IN SICILY

PALERMO, Sicily, Oct. 3.—Seventeen tourists were injured, several of them perhaps fatally, when a big eight-seeing auto skidded upset to-day on the road from Torbilto to Monfort. Whether any of the injured are Americans is not known.

SULTAN AIDS RIFFS AGAINST SPANISH

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 3.—It is stated here that the Riff forces around Melilla are constantly being reinforced from the interior of Morocco. The belief is growing that the Sultan of Morocco is actively aiding the tribesmen, thereby avoiding the formality of an open declaration of war against Spain. The Spanish need reinforcements at once.

FOUR INJURED IN ACCIDENT TO AUTO

WATERBURY, Ct., Oct. 3.—An auto containing a party of New Yorkers ran into a gully south of Plantsville and ruled D. Angrave suffered a fracture of the leg. Mrs. Angrave was seriously bruised. Miss Will C. Loddington had an arm broken and Miss Minnie Losier had two fingers broken.

MAN AND WIFE RECONCILED IN DIVORCE SUIT

"If you had the chance to live with your wife to-day, would you take it?" asked Attorney John P. Feeney of Robert G. Turner, a South Boston engineer, who was on the stand in the East Cambridge divorce court to-day, seeking freedom from his pretty, brown-eyed wife.

"Certainly I would," replied Mr. Turner, as a broad smile came over his face and Judge Sanderson, who was the case, peered over his glasses, astonished.

Five minutes later the estranged couple walked arm-in-arm from the divorce court, while all of the spectators and the court officials smiled. The reconciliation was brought about dramatically.

Robert G. Turner, an engineer living at No. 398 Broadway, South Boston, asked for a divorce on the grounds of desertion. He testified that he and his wife were married on June 10, 1908.

"Soon after we returned from the honeymoon trip I enlisted in the navy as a machinist's mate, fought in the Spanish-American War," the husband testified.

Tells of Separation.

"While I was away at the war my wife made her home with her grandmother in Reading. I asked my wife to live with me and she steadfastly refused. I secured work in Braintree and had to live there. Our little boy had been living with my wife.

"In 1903 I went to Reading to see my wife. I told her that I wanted to make a home for my little boy and for her. I had saved $1,000 in the Dorchester, and furnished it, but never occupied it because my wife couldn't live with me."

Then Attorney Feeney, who represented the wife, cross-questioned Mr. Turner. After leading up to a dramatic climax, the attorney turned to Turner and said:

"If you had a chance to live with your wife to-day, would you take it?"

Leave Arm in Arm.

"Certainly, I would," answered the husband.

A five-minute conference followed.

"Do you mean what you said in good faith, Turner?" asked Attorney Feeney.

"I do. May I take her home with me now?"

"That's a matter for you to settle between yourselves," answered the attorney.

"Everything is all right and the libel's all furnished," the husband replied.

The couple left the divorce court arm-in-arm, and Judge Sanderson smiled again.

NEW HONORS FOR BRANDEIS

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Attorney Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, who defended the Oregon ten-hour-day law for women before the United States Supreme Court, has been invited by the State Attorney General's group to Chicago to perform a like office for a similar measure, which is now under fire before the Illinois Supreme Court.

Considering it would be impossible for him personally to defend the case before the Supreme Court, in view of the great investigating it would demand, the Illinois law firm decided to invite Mr. Brandeis to assist the State in placing the legal aspect of the ten-hour day before the high tribunal at Springfield.

He wrote a lengthy letter to Mr. Brandeis, stating that attack on the Illinois ten hour law by States Attorney Clyne, Oregon law and asking him to come to Chicago to assist the State to prepare briefs for submission to the Supreme Court.

The brief which was won for Mr. Brandeis a place among the celebrated attorneys of the country was written by him in the "Oregon laundry" case. The Supreme Court upheld the Oregon statute prohibiting women laboring in factories more than ten hours a day.

Mr. Brandeis is head of the law firm of Brandeis, Dunbar & Nutter of Boston.

AWFUL EXTORTION; STEAK 25 CENTS!

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The students at the University of Chicago are up in arms today against the communal restaurant at the university, where prices have been raised. The Daily Maroon voices the popular indignation to-day in an editorial leader headed, "Up, Up, Up Goes Our Prices." They charge now for steaks, mushrooms, potatoes, "and for how much do you think? Twenty-five cents. Lobster salad is twenty cents! Beef with whitebait with bread and butter and potatoes has risen to twenty cents. "Some day," said Thomas J. Burdell, who is running the restaurant, "these young fellows will order a meal in a restaurant some place else and fall dead when they see the bill."

FRED MURPHY MOST POPULAR SENIOR

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 3.—Fred Murphy, who is working his way through Yale, won the test vote for the most popular member of the senior class. His competitors included Robert Alphonso Taft, son of the President. Murphy was captain of the Yale football team last year and is a nephew of Mike Murphy, the Yale and University of Pennsylvania track and football trainer.

STRAWBERRIES RIPE IN NEW JERSEY

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 3.—Ordinarily in May strawberries are being picked in various parts of Monmouth County, New Jersey, the J. A. Bassett place of Middletown several large berries have been picked. They are as sweet as the June berries. Rice A. Brown has picked a record this season of the "Sensational" variety at his Morford avenue patch in Long Branch.

NEW BIPLANE INVENTED.

NEWPORT, Oct. 3.—Hugh L. Willoughby a member of the New York Athletic Club, announced here to-day that he was building a flying machine, a biplane, at Ventnor, N. J., and that he expected to finish it soon. Mr. Willoughby is skilled in mechanics and is a man of large means.

OUTING SAVES TAFT FROM A BREAKDOWN

By WILLIAM HOSTER.

WAWONA, Cal., Oct. 3.—President Taft was off again for a jaunt into the Yosemite at 6 a. m. to-day. "I'm going to get all I can out of this while it lasts," he said, as he climbed into the stage coach for the twelve-mile run to Big Tree Grove. At noon they are here again for lunch, and after a brief rest the coaches will be called into play for the long drive to Glacier Point, where the night will be spent.

Dr. Richardson is authority for the statement that the President was almost on the verge of a breakdown when the San Francisco reception came to an end. But he is certain that the trip in the mountains has revived the President, and that with to-day and to-morrow still before him, full of unalloyed recreation, he will resume his tour at Fresno on Sunday as good as new.

Mr. Taft showed no ill effects of his hard ride over the mountains when he came into the breakfast room. He it was also who was the first to get out of the coach yesterday on the steep climb to Inspiration Point, to give the horses a chance." The President presided at the dinner in the forest, sitting on a soap box in lieu of a chair.

"This beats all the banquets," he said, as he got to work and ate fried chicken and coffee. This was the President's first visit to the Yosemite.

194 DESERTERS FROM INFLEXIBLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Lured by the temptations of New York, 194 men are said to be missing from the British battleship Indexible to-day while dirlections from the rosters of most of the other vessels of the International Hudson-Fulton fleet are said to be numerous. Officers of the English flagship are trying to round up their missing men in preparation for sailing to-morrow. The three French battleships, Liberte, Justice and Verite, sailed this morning.

GRIEF OVER WIFE LED TO SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Grief over the death of his wife is the only cause assigned by members of his family for the suicide of Captain Francis H. Rose, treasurer of the New Mexican Development Company, who shot himself while seated in front of his desk on the thirteenth floor of No. 68 William street.

DULLNESS IN REAL ESTATE TRADE TODAY

The real estate market was very dull to-day, few sales being reported, and the reaction from the heavy trading of the past few days was very noticeable.

In the South End Max Strock and wife have sold to Sarah Levine a four-story and basement brick house and 1,000 square feet of land on Decatur street, between Washington street and Harrison avenue. This property is assessed on a total valuation of $7500, of which $2,800 is on the land.

Lewis J. Pierce et al. have sold to Florence G. Spooner the 2½-story brick house and 800 square feet of land at No. 127 Pinckney street, near Charles street, West End. This estate is taxed for a total of $3,700, of which $2,000 is on the land.

In Dorchester the corner property at No. 1456 Dorchester avenue, corner of Mt. Pleasant street, comprising a large frame building, with stores and apartments, and 4,078 square feet of land, all assessed for $16,600, of which $2,600 is on the land. Joseph Silk conveyed to Rosa Cohen.

Another Dorchester property is that at No. 39 Mt. Ida road, near Draper street, which has been purchased by Thomas F. Healy from Martin O. Drain. The estate consists of a frame house and 3,982 square feet of land, all assessed for $4,800, of which $800 is on the land.

Richard J. Walsh et us has sold to Ira W. Shapiro a lot of land, containing 5,600 square feet and taxed for a total of $2,600, at the corner of Howard avenue and Bond street, Dorchester.

In the Dorchester district Thomas Casey has become the owner of several parcels. Nos. 922 to 924 Dorchester avenue were owned by Clara C. Thurston. They comprise frame apartment houses, occupying 8,000 square feet of land, with a total assessment of $12,900. Of this amount $3,400 is on the land.

The adjoining property, No. 926 Dorchester avenue, was owned by Harry Poerio. There is a three-family frame house, occupying 4,000 square feet of land, the latter taxed for $1,700. The assessors' value of the property is $6,500.

Another property purchased by Mr. Casey is No. 928 Dorchester avenue, and the title was acquired from Clara C. Thurston. It is rated at $6,700, $1,700 being on the 4,000 square feet of land.

These parcels will be improved by Mr. Casey with apartment house. Mr. Casey will thoroughly improve the building or putting in stores on the lower floor. He is a great believer in Dorchester realty, and has negotiations under way for the purchase of several other parcels in that section.

BANKER SHOT.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 3.—H. W. Shaw, a physician and local politician, shot Thomas S. Gray, cashier of the Union Savings Bank. Four shots were fired, two taking effect, one in the hand and one in the leg. Gray is at a local hospital and probably will recover.

PATROLMAN SAVES FAMILY IN GAS PERIL

Patrolman Patrick E. Barry of the Metropolitan Park police saved Miss Ida Goodman of No. 44 Flint street, West Lynn, and three other members of her family from death by asphyxiation early to-day. Miss Goodman was so near death that had the officer arrived a few moments later she could not have been revived.

Patrolman Barry was attracted to the Goodman house, which is near his own, by cries of help just after midnight. He found nearly 200 people gathered about the place. Rushing into the house he found it filled with escaping gas.

He found Miss Goodman unconscious in her room on the first floor. He carried her to the yard, and while others ran for a doctor he used artificial means of restoring respiration. At the end of an hour the girl began to revive.

FOUR CLAIM BIG ESTATE AS CHILDREN

Laying claim to the estate of the late William J. Corbett, for many years a junk dealer at No. 156 Worcester street, who died here September 23, last, intestate, James J. Corbett, a brother, formerly of Boston and now said to be in the West, and two half-brothers, Albert Barlow of Montreal, and Fred Barlow of Quincy, filed their claims to property estimated at $300,000 contested by four persons who claim to be children of the deceased.

A conference was held before Judge George in the Probate Court and Thomas F. Kenny, ex-school committeeman, and John R. McVey were appointed special administrators under bonds of $100,000 each. They will look after the estate, pending the establishment of the claims of the rightful heirs.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Berlin Women Hiss Slayer of Prima Donna.

BERLIN.—Fraulein Auguste Zobel is on trial in the Criminal Court for the slaying of Frieda Barthold, the beautiful prima donna of the Royal Opera of Berlin. The courtroom is crowded by well-known people of the musical circles of Berlin, and the prisoner's present display much dramatic sentiment against the accused woman that the judges are forced to suppress their hissing. According to the charge made by the prosecuting lawyer, Fraulein Zobel drew the prima donna in the latter's home last March out of unreasonable jealousy. Fraulein Barthold was engaged to marry an engineer named Koch, who had also been wooing Fraulein Zobel.

Kaiser's Chivalry Praised.

BERLIN.—The Kaiser's inclusion of the Princess von Hohenberg, the morganatic wife of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir presumptive to the Austrian and Hungarian thrones, in his invitation to the latter to visit Berlin next month is much applauded here. It is hoped that it will lead to the breaking of the granite etiquette of the Austrian court, which excludes an accomplished, refined woman from her true place merely because her blood is not royal. The newspapers trace the Kaiser's championship of the Princess to his last visit to Vienna, when they say he remarked upon her absence among the exalted personages assembled at the state concert in honor of the Tsar. With impulsive good nature he insisted upon her presence, refusing to go to the table until she arrived.

Lord Mayor's Show Abandoned.

LONDON.—The old-fashioned Lord Mayor's Show, which for a great many years has been one of the most picturesque functions to be witnessed in England, will be abandoned this year by the new Lord Mayor-elect, Sir John Knill. Sir John proposes to have a military and naval display on the occasion of his assuming office, and five thousand volunteers from both branches of the service will parade in his procession. Only the gilded chariots of the Lord Mayor and the sheriffs will remain of the old-time pageantry.

German Flag Hauled Down.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The Foreign Office announced that the trouble at Hardin between Baumuller, the German consul there, and the Russian authorities has been settled. The Foreign Office says the brewery company had no claim on German protection, and the consul has ordered the German flag hauled down from the brewery building where it had been raised by order of Baumuller.

Straus Aids Prussian City.

CASSEL, Prussia.—Nathan Straus of New York has been here conferring with the Burgomaster and other municipal authorities in connection with the installation of 200 home milk pasteurizers which he recently presented to the city. The presentation was the result of an outbreak of typhoid fever in Cassel, which was traced to infected milk.

Suffragettes Pursue Asquith.

LONDON.—A delegation of suffragettes has pursued Prime Minister Asquith to Balmoral, Scotland, where he was summoned lately by the King. They are staying in the neighboring village and will not hesitate to invade the royal castle to persecute Mr. Asquith if the chances offer. The precincts are being closely guarded by detectives and the King's servants.

Christians at Sheik's Feast.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The latest instance of how Turkey is breaking old traditions was the presence of Sir Gerald Lowther, the British Ambassador, and C. H. Fitzmaurice, chief dragoman of the embassy, as guests of the Ramadan banquet at the residence of the Sheik-ul-Islam. The event is unprecedented.

Wireless for 3,500 Miles.

HONOLULU.—The army transport Buford, arriving here from Manila, reports that wireless messages were exchanged with the Pacific coast four days before arriving here, thus covering a distance of 3,500 miles. The Buford has the most powerful wireless equipment of any vessel in the Pacific.

Chinese Pork Diseased.

LONDON.—Nine per cent. of the carcasses of Chinese hogs recently imported into England and thus far inspected by the sanitary committee of the City of London have been found to be affected with tuberculosis.

THREE CRUSHED TO DEATH.

CANAL DOVER, O., Oct. 8.—Caught between the piston rod and the head of a 160-ton engine cylinder, inside of which they were working at the blast furnace of the Penn Iron and Coal Co., three men were crushed to a pulp and their bodies pressed into a space of four inches. The dead are David Harmy, William Long and John Garber.

MRS. PANKHURST, WHO WILL LEAD THE SUFFRAGISTS HERE

More AMERICANS are read in the homes in Boston than any other paper.

THOUSANDS IN SUFFRAGISTS' CRUSADE HERE

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Under the auspices of the Woman's Social Political Union a large and very enthusiastic meeting was held in Albert Hall. Its purpose was to give a rousing farewell to Mrs. Pankhurst, who is leaving shortly for the United States on a lecture tour in behalf of woman suffrage. Mrs. Pankhurst received a great ovation.

Keir Hardie telegraphed his cordial wishes.

Another object of the meeting was to protest against the forcible feeding of suffragettes now in jail.

Mrs. Pankhurst said: "The performances of force-feeding women in jail is a modern miracle. The government may flog and hang women, but it can do no worse than feed them when they decline to eat."

Mrs. Patrick Lawrence, who presided, invited a donation of funds.

She said that $250,000 was needed and that $230,000 had been already been subscribed.

Within ten minutes after she made her plea an additional $15,000 had been raised.

10 DAYS IN JAIL FOR LEGLESS MAN

John Conley, a pedler with both legs amputated close to his trunk, who is a familiar figure in the shopping district, was arraigned in the city Police Court on the charge of drunkenness for the third time in ten months. He went to Charles Street Jail for ten days.

BUDGET FIGHT BRINGS HOME RULE NEARER

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Kling thus far has been unsuccessful in arranging a compromise in the budget controversy. His Majesty is still trying, however, to prevent a crisis, and had another consultation with Premier Asquith, who prolonged his visit at Balmoral Castle.

As time passes, the difficulties in avoiding a conflict between the Commons and the Lords increase, the strong party men of both sides being eager for the fight. The Liberal members, who scattered to their constituencies when debate on the finance bill adjourned, contend in their speeches that the concessions made since the bill was introduced should satisfy its opponents and express themselves as strongly opposed to any compromise.

On the other hand, the Unionists, who have made all preparations for the election, are urging the leaders to do nothing that might prevent an immediate appeal to the people. They have seized upon Mr. Redmond's statement to America that the last obstacle to home rule would have gone with the disappearance of the veto of the House of Lords, and are declaring that "a vote for the budget is a vote for home rule."

In the meantime the House of Lords is radically amending the Irish land bill. The Lords threw out the clauses providing for compulsory purchase, thus raising another issue between the two houses. The Nationalists have already announced that they will insist upon restoration of these clauses when the bill returns to the House of Commons.

EXPRESSMEN WARN AGAINST FRAUD

That fraudulent advertising solicitors are getting business from the merchants of Boston under the guise of being agents for the Expressmen's Relief and the Expressmen's Benefit Association is the warning being sent out by the local Express Drivers' and Handlers' union. The officers of that organization state that the only person authorized to do business for the union is its business agent, W. J. Smith, and request that all others be turned over to the police if attempting to carry the fraud further.

Nowhere Else Can Men Equal Our Suits at $10

We've satisfied ourselves of this—and we're speaking from 28 years of unsurpassed value-giving. You probably know, clothing has advanced in price this year—in view of this fact we're proud of what we have to show you for a ten-dollar bill. It took shrewd buying and a considerable let-up on profit to do it—but you'll be satisfied and that satisfies us. We've built up a big business on our $10 line, and we couldn't if we hadn't been able to "deliver the goods." What we say of $10 values is true of those at

KETCHEL GETS A DAY'S REST

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Stanley Ketchel is "laying off" to-day to "give his partners a rest" as Manager Britt termed it. He is doing the usual road work, but that ends his day's work.

"I am responsible for this man's condition and further speaking in all modesty, I may say I have Steve timed to the second as far as his condition is concerned," said Britt. "He will lay off to-day and Friday and perhaps yet another day before the fight comes off. I purpose to have him make a hurricane finish to his training."

Jack Johnson attempted to make up for his recent lay-off by working longer and harder than usual out at the Steil Rock Hotel. "I don't intend to train as hard as I have been doing," Jack answered, "but at the same time I don't want to go back in condition. I'll take things comparatively easy for a week at the most and then return to earnest training."

ATHOL HIGH HAS 8 GAMES

ATHOL, Oct. 8.—Although handicapped by the loss of several veterans, the football team of the local high school has showed up well in the practice games. Captain Jackson, the star fullback of last year, and the brilliant pitcher of the baseball team, has had his men hard at work in preparation for the coming games. Manager Frank Starret has arranged the following schedule:

October 16, Dickinson at Deerfield.
October 20, Gardner at Athol.
October 23, Greenfield at Greenfield.
October 30, Murdock at Athol.
November 6, Arms of Shelburne Falls.
November 13, Greenfield at Athol.
November 20, Keene, N. H., at Keene.
November 25, Murdock at Winchendon.

DICK NELSON AT ALBANY

Kid Henry and Dick Nelson are scheduled to fight at Albany, N. Y., on the 19th of October.

WAGNER BEST OF SHORTSTOPS

Bush of Detroit is a unique figure in the unofficial fielding averages of the American League. His assists number 574, the greatest in the league for the season. He leads the error makers with 71, his total chances accepted having been 883. He ranks third among the shortstops of the circuit. Wagner of Boston leading the list and McBride of Washington ranking second.

Another Boston player to gain distinction is Speaker, whose total of accepted chances is 357 and his total of assists 37, the season's record for outfielders. He ranks fourth among the outfielders, however. Crawford's total of chances is greater, but he played also at first base.

Of those who may be sold to have played through the season and are entitled to recognition ahead of the "occasionals," the three leaders in each position are as follows:

Pitchers—Quinn of New York, Suter and Walsh of Chicago.

Catchers—Cicger of St. Louis, Street of Washington, Sullivan of Chicago.

First basemen—T. Jegers of St. Louis and Detroit, Stovall of Cleveland, Davis of Philadelphia.

Second basemen—Collins of Philadelphia, Kauffer of Detroit and Washington, Lajoie of Cleveland.

Shortstops—Wagner of Boston, McBride of Washington, Bush of Detroit.

Third basemen—Murphy of Detroit, Bradley of Cleveland, Tannehill of Chicago.

Outfielders—Gandey of Washington and Philadelphia, McIntyre of Detroit, Murphy of Philadelphia.

YOUNG ERNE DRAWS WITH JOE HIRST

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Young Erne and Joe Hirst furnished the wind-up attraction at the Broadway A. C. The two boys put up a rattling mill from start to finish, each swapping blows from bell to bell.

Both tried hard for a knockout but neither succeeded in dropping his opponent to the floor much less put him out. Both lads landed right swings and many left hooks, but steam seemed to be lacking in each. Both boys were strong at the finish and the bout was a fair draw.

ORDERING NEW SONDER BOATS

Already there is prospect of many new yachts being built for next season, and it is expected that the sonderklasse will have the greatest number of new ones of any class.

Fred D. Lawley has an order for one and the plans are all ready. The owner's name, however, is withheld for the present. It is expected that George W. Wright man and C. P. Curtis will each have new boats in the sonderklasse. It is said that Charles D. Mower of New York has an order for two sonder boats, one of which will be for George C. Thomas, who owned this season's Heads.

At Lawley's basin the larger yachts are being made ready for winter quarters. Among those now in the basin are the United 11., three-masted auxiliary schooner, owned by W. H. Brown of Pittsburg, Pa.; schooners Shiyessa III and Shiyessa IV., Commodore Alfred Dourglass, Boston Yacht Club; auxiliary schooner Arbella, Commodore W. B. Thomas, Eastern Yacht Club; schooner Hope Leslie, Lawrence Minot; steam yacht Isis, T. and W. P. Spaulding; steam yacht Helena, P. W. Ayer; steam yacht Dreu, S. W. Colson, Philadelphia; schooner Tuonina, W. Paton; auxiliary schooner Emerald, Vice Commodore F. Lewis Clark, Eastern Yacht Club; yawl Palatine, C. H. Ludley, St. Louis; steam yacht Peregrine, R. H. White, Sloop Ellin, Gordon Abbott; schooner Ogarod, P. Vaughan; launch Betsy Jane II, F. H. Hayward; sloop Spartina, Gordon Dexter; auxiliary schooner Chanticleer, E. C. Fitch; launch Fraina, Edward Redmond, New York; sloop Hiuuna, Robert Ayer; schooner 52, launch Fristina, G. Fletcher, and launch Bostonia, Thomas Quinby.

In the east shop an 80-foot gasoline cruiser, designed by Cox & Stevens, is nearly ready for launching, and in the same shop there is another gasoline cruiser, slightly smaller, also from designs of Cox & Stevens. She is planked.

CYCLE STARS WILL RACE

NEWARK, Oct. 8.—Owing to the fact that the question of superiority between National Cycling Champion Frank L. Kramer and Jackie Clarke, the Australian marvel, is still unsettled, as Clarke refused to ride in the race last Sunday after it had been changed, and by winning which Kramer made sure of his title for another year, the men have been signed up for an individual match race, best two out of three one-mile heats, for the Newark Velodrome next Sunday afternoon. Clarke has beaten Kramer as often this season as Kramer has won from him. The Australian has shown all along that he possesses as much speed as the American.

JIMMY WALSH TO TEACH YOUNG TAFT

Information has just been received that Charley Taft, the youngest son of the President, will, in all probability, take lessons in boxing the coming Winter from Jimmy Walsh, the local boxer.

Just when and where Jimmy will impart his knowledge of boxing to his pupil has not been ascertained, but it is thought that this will not be decided upon until after the President returns from his swing around the country.

Charley is now attending school at Watertown, Ct.

WALTHAM FOOTBALL PLAYER OUT OF GAME

WALTHAM, Oct. 8.—Arlington Evans, the star right end of the Waltham High School football eleven, broke his collarbone while practicing, and it is believed that he will be unable to play in the game this season.

The injured man was practicing falling on the ball. Evans missed the pigskin and fell forward with terrific force, breaking his breast bone.

B. A. A. MAN AT PENN.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Joseph Ballard, the Providence high school and Boston A. A. star distance runner, arrived in Philadelphia and matriculated at the U. of P. Ballard reported to Trainer Mike Murphy, and donned his track clothes for a short jog around the cinder track, with the other cross-country candidates.

Boxing News in Brief Form

Tom McCarer has made an offer to Al Kubiak that would stir the Philadelphian up, and if he accepts it Promoter Neal Harry is going to make a match for himself. Father Tom wants Al to box Jack Burns and Jim Barry in Los Angeles in November. Burns recently stopped heavyweight Jack Sellers in three rounds in the Southland, and will draw well with Kubiak. Barry can clear the lot.

A big card that Jim Coffroth has up his sleeve is a finish fight between Tommy Burns and Sam Berlind. Burns is expected back in this country after his theatrical work is over in Australia, which will be around the end of the year. Burns said recently that he is anxious to get another chance at the championship, and a victory over Ed (Strangler) Ketchel as it will draw close to $40,000.

The Lewis-Papke battle at Pittsburg is attracting much attention in the smoky village, and if everything goes well the bout will have a record gate. Lewis has a good chance of winning and if he does the way is cleared for the Burke battle. Mr. Papke may take a tumble to the carpet for the full ten.

Johnny Frayne may meet the Murphy-Powell winner in a ten-round bout on October 15. Frayne has started work for the big affair already, and expects to be as good as ever. Eight rounds is the limit now with the Mission Club to bet Powell November 11. He is to get $1,250 for his end. Tommy Burke this week starts going after.

Nothing would please Peter Kline better than to get Al. Wolgast in the ring with him at 122 pounds at six o'clock over a distance of ground. He says he is negotiating with a fighter who can run the match, or, if Wolgast is too balky, Tommy O'Toole will do nicely.

If Phil McGovern accepts the Savannah match with Cochran, the latter's manager wants another shot seventy-five to the winner and twenty-five to the loser.

Jack Johnson will weigh forty pounds more than Ketchel when they meet at Jones Coffroth's arena. Johnson will tip the beam at 210, while Ketchel will go in at 170.

If Johnny Frayne's illness prevents his meeting Powell on October 15, Coffroth will put Jack Welch next to meet Nelson on Thanksgiving Day. Welch originally planned to have the winner of the above match go on with the Dane.

Dan McMahon, manager of Knickerbocker Billy Papke, has signed Jack Blackburn to box the latter's sparring partner, Pal Howard, and he offered the job, with Dick Nelson having the second call.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

HARVARD TEAM IS READY FOR WILLIAMS GAME

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

AS USUAL, WHEN ANYTHING BIG is doing in the sporting line, the BOSTON AMERICAN will be there with the real sporting extra—the kind that makes all the other papers sit up and wonder how Trudy up the dope on past performances and I'll bet you will play the AMERICAN o canter in big open bunches with the news of the big Marathon this afternoon, he baseball games at Pittsburg, Chicago and New York, as well as everything else n the sporting line to-day. It's there like a stake horse out in front of a field of loiters. If you miss the American luncheon extra, you'll miss a lot of the sports, or no other evening paper will have it. ih.

OH, I GUESS THIS BASEBALL IS ot a popular game. They expect between 30,000 and 40,000 fans to see the opener between the Pirates and the Tigers, and somewhere in the neighborhood of $30,000 has been returned to people who tried to buy tickets and were too late. Going some, h? And there will be a few more circumstances about the seven hundred thousand that will see the score of the big fight while watching the other post season games in Chicago and New York. National sport waning in popularity, is it not. Yes, it is not.

THERE ARE SOME WISE MEN IN the boxing game in the vicinity of Boston, an official of one of the clubs, and one of the big ones at that, was asked a few days ago why a bout was not arranged between Jimmy Walsh and Monte Attell for Boston, to help settle the squabble for the bantam title. He said:

"Monte Attell? Let me tell you. There is nothing doing at our club for Monte Attell after the showing he made against Tommy O'Toole here a few weeks ago. Our members will not stand for that kind of bouts."

It was Abe Attell who boxed with O'Toole.

R. L. G., SALEM—I DO NOT AGREE with you that Porky Flynn will have an easy time trimming Calloway next Tuesday at the Armory. On the other hand, I have a hunch, based on the work of the young negro in the West, that Porky will be a very busy agent during the entire twelve rounds, and that it will be even harder battle for him than the one with Ialor Burke. My dope on the other bouts is that Whitney will win from Young Jack Johnson, and that Nelson, who lost to Eddie McMahon last week, will come back and win. There is all three of them and if it works out that way, tell me I'm a bad guesser.

I HAVE A LETTER FROM A BOSton fan who must travel to the ocean to pass from John J. Taylor. Judging from the way he is boosting the American League, he asks that his name be not printed so I won't, but you can get a line on him when I tell you he has it all doped out that the Tigers, White Sox and Red Sox are going to make monkeys out of the Pirates, Cubs and Giants in the sensation which begin this afternoon. Take it from me, old scout, that there are a few baseball players in the National League, and if any will come around some time during the season, I'll buy you a ticket to the Columbus avenue park and maybe it will keep into your think pan that there are two major leagues. I'm willing to make a small bet that you carry a green bag, wear spectacles and goloshes, and that you speak about going "out West" when you contemplate taking a trip to Buffalo. There are a whole lot like you in Boston, and it is about time for you to wake up.

THE GLOVER A. C. OF SOUTH Boston has reorganized for the coming season under the leadership of "Jimmy" Duff, formerly of Cushing Academy. Last season the team finished with a clean record of eight victories and tying the game with the strong A. C. of Roxbury. The team is out with a challenge with any 105 pound team in the State offering a fair guarantee. The team is comprised of such star players as James Duff and Harold Duff; Percy Heegan from South Boston; Joe Sullivan, Boston Latin School and Archie Lee of Dean Academy. Will give or take full expenses. Address James J. Duff, No. 44 Middle street, South Boston.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Please dope this out for me. What would be the amount of an estate if when it is divided into three parts, the first part is double the second, and the second part is $1,000 more than the difference between the second and third is $75. Thanking you in advance, I remain yours truly, JOHN J. CARR.

[Transcriber's note: illegible], Hazelhurst, Miss.

Sure thing I'll dope this out for you, Joe. What do you think I am, a night school? I'm trying to run a sporting column here, but evidently not succeeding very well, when such as yours come along.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

To decide a bet, will you please answer to your Straight Dope column if Jerry Gaines ever fought and if so, where and when. Respectfully, JAMES DONOVAN.

[illegible] Hillerin street, Roxbury.

"Porky" Flynn was knocked out in eight rounds by Jerry Gaines in a bout in Chelsea.

THAT BOY WILLOUGHBY IS CERtainly some wrestler, and seems to be faster right now than ever before. His appearance is very deceptive, as he looks many pounds heavier than he really is. In his catch-weight matches he scales around 165 pounds, but claims he can make the middleweight limit easily, and has issued a challenge to Sam Anderson of Norwood to meet him at 158 pounds for a purse and side bet. Judging from his recent matches, in which he has been beating up the best in the host, next, I dope it out that if he can make that weight and retain his strength there is not a man in the country that can touch him.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear sir—In reference to the bantamweight title I see no reason why Henry Myers of Charlestown hasn't a right to claim to it than J. Conlon.

Henry O'Leary of New York had all the best of Conlon in two rounds and K. O. Brown defeated him in four rounds. Brown knocked out Myers in two rounds, he was then matched with O'Leary who had cold feet and wouldn't fight. Hoping to see this in your column, I remain,

A. M. R.

Meyers is a good kid all right, but are you not a little strong for him. You must have been listening to Jimmy Green and absorbed some of his dope.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear Sirs—I am all ready for business. Would like to meet Eddie Curtis or any good boy at 112 or 115 pounds at the Dorchester A. A. Yours truly, BOBBY TUCKER.

Dorchester A. A.

I bet Eddy Kline of Newark can lick Al Delmont.

I'll take a chance on you and print this, but I'd like to see Eddie Moore's monacher to any challenge issued by either Bobby or Ralph Tucker, and would also like to hear your managers attend to your press agent work. Watch how Jeff and Berger work it.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Will you kindly state in your "Straight Dope" column that Tom Harrington, who played there all on a couple of years ago, is anxious to get on with Billy Sharkey. Tim has signed a contract with Billy Sharkey and declares himself to be in the best condition of his career, which you will know means something if you take a look at his record. Mr. Harrington is especially desirous of signing Joe Burdett, or McNamara of Cambridge or Kid Carter of Chelsea, and there is no reason why he should not get them. Hoping you will do this for me, I am Jack the writer of the Big Stone-Dutch Carr bout. Assuring you in advance for favors and my thanks of this, I take this opportunity of remaining yours truly, EUGENE McDONALD, 61 Pearl street, Boston.

The battle for quarterback position at Harvard between O'Flaherty and Inglesworth is one of the unexpected sensations of the season. Before the development of the latter the team will undoubtedly have no worry at the stadium for fear that the loss of Cutler, who played so well a year ago, would greatly weaken the team, but this fear has now changed to worry over which man to select to run the team. O'Flaherty had the call in the early season practice and also was played at quarter in the Bates and Bowdoin games, but is now in danger of losing the place to Wigglesworth, the quarter of last season's freshman team. O'Flaherty has the weight and size and is one of the finest handlers of the football one ever sees at Harvard, but he lacks the dash and general all-around ability of Wigglesworth, the latter is easily superior in running with the ball, in punting, and at present is doing better judgment in the selection of plays. Both are good players, and it is going to be no easy job to make the final selection, and it is likely that it will be almost through the season without being injured Coach Haughton will not play both in the big games.

The trouble of the coaching squad at Harvard is a unique one this season and one that is going to cause a lot of worry-ing for the coaches when it comes to the other worry of coaches and captains in the world of good material, but at Soldiers Field this season the trouble seems to be how to use the most candidates of the stars now candidates for the team.

Harvard has the finest squad that ever left the locker building on the Charles-ton with its assistants, and the team will play the last season enthusiastic in the stead of being on the spot for material as is the rule in most of the big colleges Coach Haughton finds himself powerless to use to best advantage all of his dependable and at no doing is likely to spoil all past methods of playing a combination and cause by the use of many men.

Last season Coach Haughton sprung a new idea by picking many men in the big-portant games and he so doing furnished an important subject for discussion on the post who prided themselves on going through the big games without using substitutes. In the past it was considered a great thing to have the original lineup finish the game, but the new style of football has made this impossible in impossibility, and the Harvard leader was a very shrewd one when he was the originator of developing many good players and working them in so as to spread out all the game and then recalling them in favor of others of equal ability and more maturity. This top speed until a game was won and world championships be replaced by players who could hold the game safe.

This style of game defeated Yale last season and the same lines are being worked out along this plan at the Stadium and also by many other college teams.

GOLF GOSSIP
NEWS OF THE LINKS

The large gallery that followed the professional match at Brae Burn were amused at the fresh bale of the second round, when a dog romped onto the links and made off with Tom McNamara's ball. It looked as if the ball were gone for good, but after the canine had added about 1200 yards to Mac's drive he dropped the sphere and scampered away.

It seems to be a regular thing nowadays for Mr. C. M. Hart, the president of the Allerton Golf Club, to win the low gross prize in the open tournaments, for not only did he play a splendid sixty-nine in the Aug. 21 meeting but in the first day's play of this week's two day meeting he negotiated a seventy-five and tied with H. E. Sprouse for the low gross.

In the playing of the Wollaston course during the last tournament the heavy appreciation of the players was expressed over the good time had at the club and of the work which has been done on the course. The links in spite of its gaps is totally different from the old field and a much better chance for golf is offered than ever before.

PIRATES PICKED TO WIN FIRST WORLD'S TITLE GAME FROM TIGERS

WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP FACTS.

The teams—Pittsburg, National League, vs. Detroit, American League.

Schedule—Friday and Saturday at Pittsburg; Monday and Tuesday at Detroit; Wednesday at Pittsburg (if necessary); Thursday at Detroit (if necessary).

Games begin—2 p. m. When the teams are in Detroit the time is 3 o'clock, Boston time.

GIANTS-RED SOX SERIES.

Schedule—Friday and Saturday at New York; Monday and Tuesday at Boston; Wednesday (if necessary) at New York; Thursday (if necessary) at Boston.

Games begin at 3 p. m.

pealed to the police that scalpers had secured huge batches of tickets, despite the fact that every precaution had been taken to keep the pasteboards from them. Many fans started a riot during the early morning, when they found that the only way in which they could secure tickets was from the speculators, and the police were forced to threaten them with drawn clubs before they would break up.

$100 for Reserved Seats.

The speculators were demanding $20 each for the bleacher tickets, while they got as high as $100 each for single seats in the grand stand. Twenty thousand fans were on hand by 8 o'clock, and the majority of them realized that the only way they would be able to see the contest would be to pay these exorbitant prices.

Manager Fred Clarke, of the Pirates, was up early this morning and when asked if he expected to win the opening game, said:

"I am confident that we will get away in the lead to-day in the fight for the world's title. All of my men are in good shape, and we will have no kick coming if beaten. I appreciate the strength of the Tigers, and realize that the Pirates will have to be right on their toes all the time.

"I shall work young Adams this afternoon. He is pitching splendid ball just now. Willis will be warmed up ready to go in if Adams should show any signs of weakening, but I know what a game youngster he is, and will his great assortment and his fine control, I think he will be more than a match for the hard-hitting pennant winners of the American League.

Jennings Is Confident, Too

Manager Jennings was in a happy frame of mind, and spoke warmly of the prospects of his team leading the world's championship series. When asked how many games he thought it would require to settle the contest replied with a characteristic smile: "Well, well, I do not know exactly how badly we are going to beat them."

Manager Jennings said that he had almost definitely decided to use Mullin as the pitcher in the first game. Should he change his mind it will be in favor of Bill Donovan, who has been sick for the past few days with a slight attack of malaria. The pitcher is improving rapidly, however, and there is every possibility that he will be in condition to go into the box in the event of Manager Jennings deciding him to do so.

Cobb vs. Wagner.

One of the big features of the contest will be watching the game put up by those kings of the diamond, Ty Cobb of the Tigers, the greatest fielder and leading batter of the American League, and Honus Wagner, the greatest slugging and batting in the National organization.

Both need but the 8-11 this year in batting, and the world's series was to see them in a duel side by side for individual honors in their specialties.

Never has the greater rivals met on the same diamond, and each was ready to meet the other for his ruling in the baseball sport before hostilities began. Cobb, the younger of the two, paid a glowing tribute to the Pirate shortstop and said he was the greatest living player to-day. He said:

"While I have never seen Wagner in action, I have followed his game closely and am satisfied that he is the greatest living ball player. He cannot be otherwise, else he would have worn out with the public long before now. I am known as more than one who plays for his own glory. My hope is that I may be as great a player as Wagner and that I may have as firm a hold on the people of my own town as of my league as has this wonderful man.

"But you have a better batting average than Wagner, I have been told," was suggested to Cobb, who replied modestly:

"The longer one stays in baseball the more convinced will he be that the element of luck enters largely into the game. I was in luck this year—great luck. How your man Wagner been in our league, and with my chances, I do not doubt he would have stolen many more bases than I did. I, too, had the fortune to get the ball safe often, while other players on the team, fully as good, perhaps better than myself, could not hit other than into a fielder's hands. If we have the luck in the series Pittsburg can have the bills. I hope Wagner hits for 400 and I only 380, if by so doing Detroit can win the series."

SCHOOLS SPLIT OVER FOOTBALL

Athletic relations between Rindge and Boston English High School teams have been severed on account of trouble regarding the latter's football schedule. A football game scheduled for to-morrow afternoon.

When the official schedule of the Interscholastic Athletic League was adopted last Spring, it was understood that the English High-Rindge game would be played at the American League grounds.

Owing to the post season games between the Red Sox and the Giants, the American League grounds will not be available until after next Tuesday.

English High will continue as a member of the Interscholastic League this season, while Rindge and Dorchester, but will not compete in football or baseball with Rindge.

There has been unfriendly feeling between Dorchester and Rindge also, but it will not affect the playing of their league game this Fall.

FOOTBALL GRIDIRON NOTES

It's no surprise to followers of football who watched Eddie Hart's work at Exeter to find that he is being considered for football honors of the season of 1909. Owing to his fullback work, Captain Hart of Exeter has done almost defended his center-fielder team.

Simon Pauritz, the Penn end and baseball player, is to assist the Quaker coaches from now on. Pauritz has been playing professional ball all summer.

One of the biggest, if not the biggest, score of the year was registered Saturday, when the Penna Van College of Sioux City was beaten by Morningside 116 to 0. Most of the touchdowns were made on forward passes.

Captain Miller of Penn may be placed at right end of Asst. Thayer makes good at quarterback. Miller is a star at both ends, and is equally at home at either position. Captain Miller, however, prefers the end position, but he will not hold his former position.

It may be that Captain Barry of the Syracuse team will not lead that eleven this year. He did not make the trip to New Haven for the Yale game, and Dan Hickey is said to be in line for his place. No reason has been given for Barry's absence.

Cornell started the season with a squad of eighty-three, the largest that ever has gathered on Percy field.

For the Harvard-Yale game this Fall Yale undergraduates are practically the only ones who have a chance to get tickets, as Harvard graduates have the preference.

It has been suggested that for the big games the Harvard management place boxes between the pillars of the new promenade around the top of the Stadium. The suggestion looks good on paper, but it is doubtful if it would be possible to stand selling these boxes, and aside from the pecuniary benefit the fact that they would provide desirable accommodations for any fifty parties would seem to recommend it as a good scheme.

Penn was the first of the big college teams to start practice this season, and the fact that the season opens later than the Penn team is not as strong as expected to be, although scores of games played shows that the team is going along well.

Captain Tydeman's work in the Cornell games and practice stamps him as a great football player and he is a large factor in the Harvard ends and secondary defense when the teams meet at the Stadium.

Burkhalt has a player, "Shorty" Rufield, who stands only 5 feet 3½ inches.

The Tigers have a stiff schedule for their last four games, meeting Lafayette, Annapolis, Dartmouth and Cornell, successively Saturdays.

Bill Hollenback, Penn's captain last Fall, has won the Pennsylvania mile and says that the material is there for the best eleven Princeton has had since John De Witt's time.

Almost every day Pennsylvania of the Harvard squad seems to be wrenching him in the scrimmages, and Coach Haughton is exercised at the heavy bulldog style of tackle he is using.

If the old saying by football experts, that "A first team should be strong on the second team plays," is true, Harvard will be in fine condition going at Harvard in the final game, for the first team has a having all sorts of trouble scoring on the second, and this certainly is a test of offense and defense.

KAUFMAN TO BOX O'BRIEN IN PHILADELPHIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Al Kaufman has accepted the terms of a Philadelphia promoter for a six round battle with Jack O'Brien on October 27, and will leave for the East this week. The California boxer, however, will attend to all details of the pil grimage East and handle the managerial end. Kaufman believes he has made a good match, and it will give him a chance to deal with Eastern promoters for future battles.

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—In the betting on the Ketchel-Johnson fight speculation seems to be confined as to the length of the fight.

Then money that Ketchel will or will not last fifteen rounds, and it is said a man does not have to put up $1000 to have his money lifted, no matter how he wants to bet on this particular of the battle.

So far as can be learned Ketchel money is plentiful and it may be that within a day or two Johnson-fight speculation fiends will be offering even money that he will not last the end of the six rounds round.

That is not due, no doubt, to a study of Johnson's past record in his fights on the coast, especially wherein he was matched to go twenty rounds he very rarely won by a knockout. As a matter of fact he generally ever has lived lasted the full twenty rounds, although Johnson by that reckoning should be defeated.

Back in 1902, Peter Everett, who would be more quickly recognized if I called him Mexican Pete, went twenty rounds with Johnson. In the same year Klondyke Irish never lasted twenty rounds with the man who is now champion of Old Woodward's pavilion.

Hank Griffin, who was never much of a demon in the ring, also stood twenty rounds before Johnson in that year and Jeffries was some fifteen which was all the arches called for. The fights with Griffin took place at Los Angeles and in each case Johnson won on points.

In that particular Johnson's record was not entirely devoid of knockouts, however. He finished Bernhard Ferbe in four rounds, once in Oakland and once in San Francisco, and he knocked out Jack Jeffries, a brother of the retired champion, in four rounds at Los Angeles.

In 1902 Johnson's record is full of twenty round battles.

Dexter Ed Martin lasted that long in Los Angeles and Jack McVey was twice defeated by Johnson at the same place in twenty rounds. It was in this year that Johnson and Joe Ferguson did their ninety round stunt at Colma. In the following year Johnson did up Sam Berger in the twentieth round of a contest at Mechanics' pavilion in this city.

In 1903 Johnson lost to Marvin Hart in twenty rounds but in Woodward pavilion.

The shortest fight Johnson figured in Sth and his four-round fight with Joe Kennedy. He knocked out Jim Flynn in ten rounds in Colma's arena and his last battle in this neck of the woods was his ten-round fight with Al Kaufman.

Taking the average of Johnson's performances, there are articles still for sale on hands. It looks as though even betting that he will not dispose of Ketchel in fifteen rounds is a safe one, as a man Ketchel surely stands head and shoulders over the rest of the field as a fighter from the full distance.

Johnson's work yesterday was of the usual character namely road work in the morning and boxing and punching the bag in the afternoon. The doctors have ordered the champion to reduce his weight as speedy as possible and it remains to be seen whether the treatment used in this direction.

There are no further changes Johnny Frayne and Lew Powell will meet in a twenty round go at the coliseum on the night of October 29.

NOTED AUTO DRIVER GOES TO EUROPE

By J. C. KERRISON.

James Ryall, the amateur race driver, who, during the past year has captured honor and glory throughout the country, is to follow the example of other distinguished members of the racing fraternity and make a tour of Europe.

In about a month he will sail for a tour through Continental Europe, more for pleasure than business. Incidentally, however, he will visit some of the world's leading motor factories and pick up a racing car that may look good to him. He is anxious to drive in one of the big international races and is built to the fore. He has a few old scores to settle on the race track and the reputed bonus will get him something that will clean up the field.

Bill Pickens, the erstwhile manager of Barney Oldfield and partner of Louis Strang, sailed for Europe yesterday, he is going abroad to make some arrangements for the importation of certain foreign cars which may be driven in this country by Barney Oldfield and Louis Strang. Just what the proposition is remains to be seen, but when Pickens returns we will get his individual press bureau at work and show some interesting dope.

Fred J. Wagner and C. B. Ames have assumed ownership of the Horseless Age, a weekly publication devoted to motor vehicles. The publication is issued weekly and is one of the oldest journals devoted to motor vehicles. Mr. Wagner was formerly Eastern representative of the Motor and organized the Wagner-Field Company a few months ago with Russel A. Field to handle advertising for automobile manufacturers. Mr. Ames has been connected with the advertising department of the Motor Boat of the new publication will make very wide acquaintances with manufacturers of automobiles and gasoline vessels. Mr. Wagner has acted as official starter for most of the big motor car contests in this country for the last few years.

When a Thomas car, designed for Polar exploration was offered Dr. Cook for his next peaceful trip to the Pole he unfeelingly said he expected some sort of a motor driven vehicle would be constructed in the near future, in which man will be able to make such a trip. From the northern edge of Greenland to the Pole is about 415 miles. To round trip would cover 830 miles. If then a motor vehicle is designed for this sort kill would be possible to make a dash for the Pole and return in possibly seven days.

After Dr. Cook's long absence in the Arctic region he has been justly astounded by the progress in aeronautics and the automobile industry.

Matrimonial Capital

By DOROTHY DIX

NOT long ago a good and charming young woman confided to me that a certain young man, who was highly eligible, wished to marry her; but that she hesitated to accept him because, while she admired and respected and had sincere affection for him, she was not romantically in love with him.

"I know," said she, "that John is every thing that a man should be and that he will surround me with love and tenderness and all the comforts that go to make a woman happy. I admire him and find him a most congenial companion, and I am exceedingly fond of him, but I don't think and turn cake or whether I hear his footsteps, nor have any of the romantic experiences that I've always been led to believe a woman who is ready to love has.

"For instance, the first time I met him at a party I didn't have any strange premonition that I had met my fate, and that he was the one man in the world for me. On the contrary, I thought he had the red dest hair, and the biggest feet I ever saw and I had to get used to him before I liked him at all.

"He is a sort of cultivated taste, you know; but, honest, now, I think he's the nicest man I know, though I don't have heart failure yet every time I see him coming up the street.

"Am I In Love?"

"Now the question is, do you think I am enough in love with him to marry him? Are respect and affection enough to marry on or should one be romantically in love?"

Unfortunately there is no barometer of the heart by which affection may be gauged so that we may know definitely when it has reached the marrying point, but, generally speaking, the woman who starts out with a good, steady, sane, affection for a man stands a better chance of being it last through the vicissitudes of matrimony than the one who begins married life with nothing but a bunch of romantic thrills and quivers.

Nor is reason for this hard to find. The woman who entertains a sober affection for a man that is based on knowledge and deep respect for his good qualities, has got something solid to bank on, whereas the woman whose love for a man is the result of a sudden attraction and romantic illusions is up in the air. She has nothing to go upon. There is no foundation under her palace of dreams.

Romantic Love Unstable

Of all love, romantic love is bound to be the most unstable and transitory. The physical attraction that draws two hypersensitive people together dies of satiety. The illusions with which they surround each other are inevitably dissipated by the prosaic light of every-day matrimony. The poetry vanishes under the stress of the bills and life of commonplace life.

No man who has been married to a woman five years sees in her the white-robed angel that he married. No woman who has been married to a man five years sees in him the grand and heroic being that she thought she was marrying.

And the case gets worse as the man and woman grow older, for we don't do much shrinking after we are over 30 years old, nor are our faculties so robust as they used to be. We no longer see a noble thought, think clouds of romance, but clearly, from to face; and then we want real men and women, with real virtues, with whom to live.

In deciding how much in love a man or woman should be with the party of his other part it is likewise necessary to also take temperaments into consideration.

We are taught that the person in love idolizes with strange emotions. He or he knows by some occult power when the ONE crosses his or her path. He or she s alternately lifted up into the seventh raven, and cast down into the deepest. ft, according as the ONE is kind or cruel to or she cures nothing for such ordinary things as food or drink or sleep, and if s she darkly meditates on suicide and nds the world cinders, ashes and dust the ONE fails to respond to his or her evotion.

Above all, he or she never gets over it ll leads a hopeless and blighted life if ON MARRIES another.

This is the popular conception of love, s taught by romances, and devoutly be eved by the great majority of people, ho are continually searching their sys ems for symptoms of this peculiar malady hey don't find it, and they assuredly conclude that they are accursed beings ho are immune from love, and therefore ould not marry.

A Matter of Disposition.

A man says to himself: "I think a le t Mary. She is about the nicest girl I ever saw, and I'd just be tickled to death to marry her and take care of her and do anything to make her happy, but I know m not in love with her because she won't make me forget the state of the tock market, and if there's anything the matter with my appetite I haven't noticed it, but I dare not propose to her because wouldn't be right to marry a woman that I am not in love with."

A woman says: "I certainly do think lot of Jack. He is the finest fellow the est man in the world, and I feel sure e'd get along beautifully together, but I ve't thrill worth a cent when he is round, and it would never occur to me o take rough-on-rats if he should die, so 'll have to say 'no' to him, though I hate o do so."

The truth is that whether people are romantically in love or not is a matter of temperament. There are plenty of people, capable of the warmest, deepest, truest affection who are not by nature poetic and romantic, and who could no more fall in love than they could have hysterics. They are not emotional. They are sane and well balanced, and they love in a sensible way that brings peace and happiness to those who are lucky enough to get them.

It is folly for people of this temperament to wait to be smitten down by the bolt-thrower of romantic love. They never are, but they need not be cold to the merits of the affection they have in stock. It is a bank that is good for all the drafts that the fortunate individuals they marry may draw upon it.

The Passing of the Puff

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The hair, instead of being elabora tely curled, is down perfectly straight

LISTEN to this, all you gentlemen who have in the past so bitterly complained of the size of woman's headdress.

The puffs and the rats, and even the cherished pompadour, are things of the long ago; they are as dead as "yesterday never thought of."

In their place has come the demurest, sleekest style of hairdressing you ever saw.

The first you can go to the theatre and get a full view of the stage; you can go to church and see the preachie—no chance to slumber sweetly in the shadow of your neighbor's puffs.

A brand new style of hairdressing has come to town and it bids fair to be popular.

The hair, instead of being elaborately puffed and curled, is down perfectly straight and wound tightly around the head. A switch may be cunningly interwoven into my lady's tresses, but never a puff.

The other night at the theatre I sat behind a statuesque, red-headed beauty. Her masses of hair were wound tightly around her head and held in place by huge jade-headed pins, and long jade earrings dropped from her ears. The effect was startling but undoubtedly picturesque.

For the maiden of straight and classic features this style will be very becoming, but I think the little girl with the turned-up nose had better stick to her curls and puffiness. There is no sense in aping a style simply because it is style, regardless of its becomingness.

Another new and unusual fashion, which will be of interest to girls, is that of tying a kerchief around the head. A three-cornered silk or satin scarf is tied around the head, the bows coming at one side just above the ear. These are worn in London even with evening gowns. To some girls they are extremely becoming, especially if a few curly locks escape around the edges of the kerchief.

It is the revival of a very old and very artistic headdress. Marie Le Brun, a famous artist and beauty, painted a wonderfully beautiful portrait of herself with a muslin kerchief tied about her lovely curly head. I saw the portrait some years ago in the Uzzi Gallery in Florence and stood spellbound before its delicate witchery.

If you have not time to do your hair prettily in the morning, try the kerchief. It will look dainty and gay at the breakfast table.

It's an irresistible temptation to all women to try new styles of wearing the hair; one does grow so weary of wearing it the same way year in and year out. But remember that your good looks depend very largely on how you do your hair and don't be carried away by the desire for change or to be up to date.

If you have a big nose, it stands to reason that you can't indulge in a Psyche knot.

Don't, on any account, try the new style unless you mean to do your hair beautifully. Untidy hairdressing is bad enough at any time, but in a style of this kind it would be deplorable.

The Echo in a Woman's Heart

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"My peace is gone,
My heart is sore;
I never shall find it,
Ah, nevermore!

Save I have him near
The grave is here;
The world is gall
And bitterness all.

My poor weak head
Is racked and grieved
My thought is lost,
My senses mazed.

My peace is gone,
My heart is sore;
I never shall find it,
Ah, nevermore!

To see him, him only,
At the pane I sit;
To meet him, him only
The house I quit.

His lofty gait,
His noble size,
The smile of his mouth,
The power of his eyes.

And the magic flow
Of his talk, the bliss
In the clasp of his hand
And, ah! his kiss!

My peace is gone,
My heart is sore;
I never shall find it,
Ah, nevermore!"

I THINK that the most plaintive little love wail I ever read, and the saddest part of it is that it cannot but find an echo in many a girl's heart.

There are girls in plenty the world over whose "peace is gone and whose heart are sore."

It is so pitifully easy to break a girl's heart, and a man must find but sorry triumph in the achievement. When a man's love is wounded, he can go out in the world and work; he has every distraction and amusement at hand; he even fills the time by reckless dissipation, and people simply murmur, "Poor fellow, he is drowning his sorrows, he'll come out all right." And being a man he does come out of the troubles of love quite unscathed, and ready to fall in love all over again.

But with the girl it is quite different; she just quietly sits down and frets her heart out. The hardest part is the wait ing, and the struggle to believe that all is really at an end, that the love which seemed so everlasting is dead.

"If it so pleases you to weep, little heart; things will be better after a time."

"To a bleeding heart 'after a time' seems as long as eternity.

My heart aches every time I have to tell one of my girls that time will help her sorrow, it seems such barren comfort, when I know that she wants me to tell her that all will be well, and that her love story will again run as smoothly as it has in the past.

False Comfort

But I cannot falsely comfort her with words that I know to be untrue.

Somehow or other the words

"To see him only at the pane I sit,

To meet him only the house I quit."

seem unutterably pathetic to me.

So many women the world over have watched and waited for the coming of the man, and with his passing goes the glory of the universe.

I don't want you to feel that way, my girls; I don't want you to feel that because you have been disappointed in love your heart and your peace are dead forevermore.

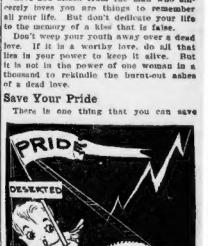
You must not live in the memory of a man's love and his kisses.

Love and kisses from the man who sincerely loves you are things to remember all your life. But don't dedicate your life to the memory of a kiss that is false.

Don't weep your youth away over a dead love. If it is a worthy love, do all that lies in your power to keep it alive. But it is not in the power of one woman in a thousand to rekindle the burnt-out ashes of a dead love.

Save Your Pride

There is one thing that you can save



"It will comfort you to recall that your little ship went down with colors flying."

from the wreck, and that is your pride. Even though your heart be broken, it will comfort you in after days to recall that your little ship of happiness went down with colors flying.

You need not lacerate your heart by trying to pretend that you don't care. Every one respects a sincere love, and false pretence on your part would be unwomanly and unnecessary. But to run after the man and try to force him to pretend a love that he did not feel would be undignified, as well as useless.

He may be false to you and his love may be dead, but at least he cannot help but respect you if you accept the inevitable in a dignified, womanly manner.

Do not, like poor little Grotchen, sit at the window and watch and wait for him, but make up your mind to bear a woman's heartache with a woman's courage.

Up-to-Date Jokes

"Is it so that you used to call regularly on that girl?"

"Yes; she always sang a song to me that I loved."

"Why didn't you marry her?"

"I found I could buy the song for fifty cents."

* * *

"English is a funny language, after all, isn't it?"

"Why so?"

"I heard a man talking of a political candidate the other day, say: 'If he only takes this stand when he runs he'll have a walk-over.'"

Synopsis.

A girl known only as Alice, whose origin and life are shrouded in mystery, impenetrable save herself and Roger Conquell, a young man of artistic tastes in Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris. She lives with Bonneton, the sacristan of the cathedral, and his wife, known as Mother Bonnetan.

Paul Coquenil, for many years the most famous detective of Paris, but who had resigned from the force under strange circumstances two years before this story opens, has accepted an offer to become head of the police force of Rio Janeiro at a salary larger than that paid the chief of police of Paris, having been indorsed for the position by the Paris Police Department.

Coquenil, jubilant at this lifting of a cloud that has dimmed his reputation ever since his unexplained resignation, is going about to say farewell to his friends the day before his intended departure.

Among others he calls on Bonnetan, who for two years has had as his assistant, in the dark recesses of the cathedral, a beautiful Persian shepherd dog named Caesar, belonging to Coquenil and used by him in his detective work. Coquenil, of course, intends to take Caesar with him to Rio Janeiro.

He finds Alice about to leave the cathedral, Coquenil glances at Alice, sitting at her table laden with flowers and prizes, and is struck with the beauty of her face. He speaks to her a few minutes very casually.

Her words have a startling effect on Coquenil, making him depressed and in appearance almost haggard. On leaving, he tells Bonnetan that he may not go to Rio Janeiro after all.

A few minutes after Coquenil's departure, Alice meets by appointment in the cathedral garden Lloyd Kittredge, a young American, whom she loves and who she asked her to meet there. Though assuring him again that she loves him, she refuses to marry him, declaring that he never can marry anyone, but she cannot tell him why.

Kittredge, exasperated and angry, is about to leave, telling her he will never see her again because he feels that she has been playing with him, when she tells him of a strange premonition that some great danger threatens him, and begs him to call on her at 9 o'clock that evening at the home of the Bonnetons as she feels that something terrible is to happen that night.

Kittredge at first refuses, but on seeing some words Alice has scribbled on a piece of blank leaf of a book, he changes his mind. He asks her to write more, but she says she has not one assonant. He is not aware of having written in the book at all and does not know what she wrote, but she does.

Her scribbled note, however, so affects him that he promises to call on her that evening, though in order to do so he will have to cut short his trip at a Fourth of July banquet of Americans, to be held that night at the Grand Hotel, one of the newest and most magnificent restaurants in Paris.

Meantime Coquenil has sent Papa Tignol, a Paris detective who is his close friend and ardent admirer, to find M. Pougent, a commissary of police, who is also Coquenil's great friend, and ask Pougent to call on Coquenil at once at the latter's house.

Pougent arrives, and Coquenil tells him that he is not going to Rio Janeiro after all because of the words of Alice, a girl to whom he had never spoken in his life, and who had passed on him until she spoke to him so strangely in the Cathedral.

Alice, he tells Pougent, told him of seeing him lately in two dreams the night before. In the first she saw him in a cell, in the garb of a convict man, a woman and a little girl, who talked together, were a village apart from him. In the second dream she had seen him on a boat going to a place where there were black people, and returning son with a wicked face in the middle of a high building down at the Pougent suggests that, after being affected by a young girl's dreams, he declares the two dreams were exact pictures of the two most important events in his life. He reveals to Pougent the fact that while he had been allowed quietly to resign, he really had been discharged from the police force for a technical error in a criminal case two years before. The first dream was an exact picture of the cell in which he was incarcerated by his order of the Rio Janeiro post.

Coquenil's interpretation of the two incidents was to the effect that some masterly criminal—some man with sufficient power to dictate the acts of the Paris Chief of Police—aimed to get him not only off the detective force, but out of France, to face the exact clear for some crime not yet committed.

He further believed that the time for the commission of that contemplated crime was near at hand, on account of the earnestness with which the man who hoped to sail to Rio Janeiro early on the next day.

Pougent, at first inclined to laugh at his friend's fears, finally becomes convinced that he has reason for his belief, when Coquenil's telephone rings. Pougent is asked for and is told that a murder has just been committed at the Ansonia Hotel.

CHAPTER III.

Private Room Number Six.

THE night was black and rain was falling in torrents, as Paul Coquenil and the commissary rolled away in response to his startling summons of crime.

Up the Rue Monart they sped with scudding horses, feeling their way carefully on account of troublesome car tracks, then faster up the Avenue Victor Hugo, their advance being accompanied by vivid lightning flashes.

"He was in luck to have this storm," muttered Coquenil. Then in reply to Pougeot's look: "I mean the thunder; it deadened the shot and gained time for him."

"Him? How do you know a man did it? A woman was in the room, and she's gone. They telephoned that."

The detective shook his head. "No, no, you'll find it's a man. Women are not original in crime. And this is—ah—this is different. How many murders can you remember in Paris restaurants—I mean smart restaurants?"

M. Pougeot though a moment. "There was one at the Silver Pheasant, and one at the Pavillion and—and——"

"And one at the Cafe Rouge. But those were stupid shooting cases, not murders—not planned in advance."

"Because the man escaped."

"They didn't say so."

Coquenil smiled. "That's how I know he escaped. If they had caught him they would have told you, wouldn't they?"

"Why—er—"

"Of course they would. Well, think what it means to commit murder in a crowded restaurant and get away. Genius, genius. Ah, we're nearly there!"

They had reached Napoleon's arch and the automobile, swinging sharply to the right, started at full speed down the Champs Elysees.

"It's bad for Gritz," reflected the commissary, then both men fell silent in the thought of the emergency before them.

Gritz, it is said, was the enterprising proprietor of the Ansonia, this being the last and most brilliant of his creations for catering the rich and hungry wayfarer.

He owned the famous Palace Restaurant at Monte Carlo; the Queen's, in Piccadilly, London and the Cafe Royal, in Brussels. Of all these establishments he was generally quoted Ansonia (hotel and restaurant) as the most luxurious and ambitious.

At the Ansonia

The building occupied a full block on the Champs Elysees, just above the Rond Point, so that it was in the centre of flash lights. It was open day and night and was a well-known Venetian palace, and its exquisite white marble colonnade made it a real adornment to the gay capital.

Furthermore, M. Gritz had spent a fortune on furnishings and decorations, the carvings, the mural paintings, the rugs the chairs—everything, in short, brought up to the best millionaire standard.

He had the most high-priced chef in the world, with six chefs under him, two of whom made a specialty of American dishes. He had his own farms for vegetables and butter, his own vineyards, his own permanent orchestra and his own brand of Turkish coffee made before your eyes by a salaaming Armenian in native costume.

For all of which reasons the present sombre happening had particular importance. A murder anywhere else was enough, but a murder in the newest, the most chic and the costliest restaurant in Paris must cause more than a nine-days' wonder.

As M. Pougeot remarked, it was certainly bad for Gritz.

Drawing up before the imposing entrance they saw two policemen on guard at the doors, one of whom, recognizing the commissary, came forward quickly to the automobile with word that M. Gibelin and two other men from headquarters had already arrived and were proceeding with the investigation.

"Le Papa Tignol here?" asked Coquenil.

"Yes, sir," replied the man, saluting respectfully.

"Where I go in. Lucien, you'd better speak to Gibelin," whispered M. Pougeot with a little delicate. He's a good detective, but he likes the old school methods and—but I never get on very well. He has been sent to take charge of the case, so be careful with him."

"Hands Off" to Coquenil.

"He can't object," answered Pougeot. "After all, I'm the commissary of this quarter, and if I need your services——"

"I know, but I'd sooner you spoke to him."

"Good. I'll be back in a moment." And pushing his way through the crowd of curious onlookers who blocked the sidewalk, he disappeared inside the building.

M. Pougeot's moment was prolonged to five full minutes, and when he reappeared his face was black.

"Gibelin is a pig," he stormed.

"It's what I expected," answered Coquenil.

"Gibelin says you have no business here. He's an impudent devil! 'Tell Beau Coquenil,' he answered, 'to keep his hands off this case. Orders from headquarters.' I told him you had business here, business for me and—come on. I'll show 'em."

He took Coquenil by the arm, but the latter drew back. "No, not yet. Let's better idea. Go ahead with your report. Keep me out of it."

"But I want you on the case," insisted the Commissary.

"I'll be on the case all right, but let me say my way first."

"I'll telephone headquarters at once about this," insisted Pougeot. "We shall see you again?"

Coquenil eyed his friend mysteriously. "I think you'll see me before the night is over. Now get to work and," he smiled mockingly, "give M. Gibelin the assurance of my distinguished consideration."

Pougeot nodded crustily and went back into the restaurant, while Coquenil, with a parting admonition to the automobile man and dismissed him.

A Very Singular Case

Meantime, in the large dining rooms on the street floor everything was going on as usual. The orchestra was playing its best manner, and few of the brilliant company suspected that anything was wrong.

Those who started to go out were met by M. Gritz himself, and, with a brief hint of trouble upstairs, were assured that they would be allowed to leave shortly, after some necessary formalities. This delay most of them took good naturedly, and went back to their tables.

As M. Pougeot mounted to the first floor he was met at the head of the stairs by a little yellow bearded man with luminous eyes, who came forward, hand extended.

"Ah, Dr. Joubert," said the commissary. The doctor nodded nervously. "It's a singular case," he whispered, "a very singular case."

At the same moment a door opened and Gibelin appeared. He was rather fat, with small piercing eyes and a reddish mustache. His voice was harsh, his manner brusque; but there was no denying his intelligence.

In a spirit of conciliation he began to give M. Pougeot some details of the case, whereupon the latter said stiffly: "Excuse me, sir, I need no assistance from you in making this investigation. Come, doctor! back to their tables.

College Robes Are the Latest Fad

Can you imagine a more inspiring sight than a bank of enthusiastic young folks wearing those robes and cheering their favorite team to victory? It's simply great. It is no wonder that they have met with such immediate success. Made of Fleisher's Germantown Zephyr they are light, compact, and the best protection from the nipping autumn winds. The uniform sad elastic thread of the yarn imparts to the robe an even texture and prevents it pulling out of shape. This is only one of the many novelties that the makers of the Fleisher Yarns are continually designing for the benefit of yarn users. You should obtain a copy of Fleisher's Knitting and Crocheting Manual, which shows the very latest things that can be easily made with needle and hook. It is an invaluable handbook for beginner and expert. Contains a complete course of instruction in the various stitches and is the only authoritative guide to fashion in articles made of yarn.

SUNDAY BASEBALL DISPUTE GROWS WARMER! WHAT ARE YOUR VIEWS?

Judging from the numbers of letters which keep pouring into the American office, the people of Boston appear about equally divided upon the subject of Sunday baseball. The question has aroused intense interest, with the deluge of letters as a result.

The liberal element is quick to put its opinion on record and eager to grasp the opportunity to exploit its arguments in the columns of the American.

On the other hand, the conservative element, alarmed at the clamor of the liberals, are stirring themselves to write letters of protest in every mail.

Action condemning Sunday baseball playing at Fort Banks by soldier teams and other nine was taken up officially for the first time by the Winthrop Ministerial Association at a meeting held in the rectory of the St. John's Episcopal Church in that town. The clergymen would not state what they decided to do. It is said that communication to Colonel Mitchell, commander at the fort, was agreed upon and will be presented to him when he returns from his present tour of inspection.

What do you think about it? Let us have your views. The only way for a community to make known its wants is for the people to speak up. Send in your answer of not more than 100 words to the Sunday baseball editor of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

Here are some recent letters received on the subject:

LET THE PEOPLE PAY.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Yes, by all means, let people play ball on Sunday, or go to church, or amuse themselves as they may see fit, so long as they respect the rights of others in doing so. Any law against the individual's freedom of choice of Sunday observance is unjust anywhere, but in this country it is unconstitutional as well, and therefore should be repealed.

"The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." So let man appropriate the Sabbath to himself, to rest from his labor, whether that labor be mental or physical. And all should be free to seek that rest in those ways they think are best suited to individual needs.

If only Golden Rule is really golden it is applicable to this case, and if it be applied this question must speedily be settled to the satisfaction of all parties concerned. C. E. ARPIN.

SUNDAY BALL GAMES WRONG.

Editor American:

Baseball on Sunday is wrong. The strongest defence its upholders can produce is that it will keep men from drinking. Men who drink will drink anyhow, and ball will not prevent, but will increase drunkenness and gambling. Any man who would rather go to a Sunday ball game than spend Sunday at home must have a very interesting home. Some church members believe in going to church in the morning and a ball game in the afternoon. This is simply hypocrisy. Some say the morals of Boston are no better than Western cities. Yes, Boston is better. Saloons are open and all kinds of business are carried on in St. Louis on Sunday. Those who believe in Sunday ball do not support baseball. I have never heard of a professional baseball player in the big leagues who believed or wanted Sunday ball. Yes, give us Sunday ball and Sunday horse races will follow, and the laboring man will labor seven days a week. The chief matter from a practical not a religious point of view.

CHAS. L. KELLY.

No. Bellingham, Mass.

FOR SUNDAY GAMES.

Editor AMERICAN:

Ministers say every meeting of Christ after the resurrection was on Sunday, which it were true would afford good apostolic authority for folding and why not any other sport. Brother Crabtree seems to be quite a Bible student. I wish he would show me Hebrews 4 verse 9th where Sunday is mentioned as holy in it. Those people who are making such a fuss had better study to know Christ and His Word, and not accuse their fellowmen of the work in particular. W. H. HALL.

With all kinds of meats within the ordinary range of quotations at a high price, and the prospects that they will remain so for the next few weeks, housekeepers are in a quandary as what they will do in keeping within their appropriation and are making inquiries as to when a reduction will take place.

Pork, which is in universal demand, is almost at a premium, and has been so since the middle of August, and there are rumors in the market district that it is going to soar a little bit higher within the next few weeks.

Eggs and butter are also a great deal higher than people have been accustomed to paying at this season of the year.

The only meat on sale in the markets that has not been kept at a high price since beef and pork went up in value is lamb. Last week it sold for 13½ cents a pound, but to-day the price is down to 11 cents. A visit to the market stalls to-day disclosed the fact that ham which would sell for 11 to 14 cents per pound a few weeks ago was marked at 16 to 20 cents.

Bacon, which formerly sold at from 14 to 16 cents now brings 22 to 25 cents per pound. Pork roasts have been advanced from 11 cents to 18 and 20c. Pork chops advanced from 12 cents to 20. Lard which formerly sold at 12 cents now brings 16 and 18 cents.

SMART SET IN TOWN FOR SYMPHONY

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

The first real call to town of the wide-ly scattered fashionable set was sounded to-day by the Initial Symphony rehearsal at Symphony Hall this afternoon. The Symphony rehearsals are all through the season patronized by the smartest of the young members of society who never miss the Saturday night concerts, and the first rehearsal becomes quite the fad for the young hostess who has been entertaining at luncheon or take her guests out in her motor car, especially at this season, there are any number of really lovely parties including Symphony rehearsal and the resumed Arlington Ward.

Madame Louise Homer of the Metropolitan Opera House is the soloist for this afternoon's concert, and one of the strongest drawing cards of the year.

The most exclusive set of Boston is to be revealed in the unincumbered tiara William Phillips, son of Mrs. and Mr. John Phillips, Beverly street and Weldon, and Jean Goodwin, Secretary of State Knox's daughter, is to go to London, where he will wed Miss Jean K. Tiffany after the Christmas holidays. Mr. Phillips, who is one of the most interesting young bachelors in Boston and Washington society, was last winter reported engaged to Miss Ethel Roosevelt, daughter of the President and any number of the family's close friends still believe that there is something to it.

Mr. Phillips is a graduate of Harvard and has been in the diplomatic service for years. Last winter his mother and two sisters, Miss Marrian Phillips, spent the season in Washington with him, coming to Boston for only a few weeks in the late spring.

Miss Gertrude Hayden, who made her home with her uncle for time Stephen M. Crosby, has closed her summer cottage on Jerusalem road, Cohasset, and returned to her home on Marlboro street.

Mrs. Elbert Russell and Miss Catherine Russell of Marlboro street, are in the Monte. Cal., for a short visit.

Mrs. W. M. Clark of Laurel street Maplewood, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Alice Freeman Clark, to Elbert Darling of this city.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mildred Philbrook of Watertown to George Edwards Crosby of Brookline. Mr. Crosby is a Technology graduate.

The Unitarian church in Belmont was the scene of an interesting wedding yesterday at noon when Miss Mary Wellington Bird, daughter of Mrs. Jenny W. Bird of Belmont, formerly of Commonwealth avenue, became the bride of Kenneth S. Culver of Cambridge. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Samuel H. Mayo of Cambridge. Mr. Culver is a musician and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Culver of Cambridge, where the young couple will reside after their return from the wedding trip.

The maid of honor was a sister of the bride, Miss Ethel Dodd, and the best man was John W. Webber of Boston. The ushers were Ralph Merrill of Brookline, Ely Palmer of Providence, H. Arthur Wayne of Philadelphia, and Kenneth Townsend of Denver. A wedding breakfast was given at the home of the bride's mother to which about 500 guests were present from Cambridge, Brookline, Boston and Providence.

Miss Marion Holden, daughter of the late Henry A. Holden, and Mrs. S. Ostrolie Holden of this city, was married yesterday afternoon to Henderson Kellogg of Brookline, in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The Rev. Dr. Charles M. Ames officiated. The bride's only attendant was Miss Alice Sparks of Montclair, New Jersey. Owing to the recent death of the bridegroom's father, only a few guests were present at the reception which followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sedgwick have left their Summer place in Stockbridge, for an automobile trip to Buffalo.

Miss Charles Cloud and Miss Elsie Dalton of this city are guests of Mrs. Carl A. de Gersdorf at Glenclyffe in Stockbridge this week.

Mrs. C. P. Curtis, the Misses Gibson and Richard Sears were among the Bostonians who arrived in the Berkshires yesterday for a part of the Autumn season.

Mrs. Philip M. Lydig is expected home from abroad shortly. She is to be in New York during the early part of next month when the wedding of her sister, Miss Maria de Acosta, to A. Robeson Sargent of Brookline takes place. The wedding is scheduled for November 6. Mrs. Lydig passed most of the Summer and early Autumn in Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Batchelder of Boston have recently been in New York for a short visit, and returned to their home here yesterday.

Mrs. Charles S. Beckman has been in Stockbridge this week where she was the guest of Mrs. John Swann. She has concluded her visit and returned to her home here.

WHAT IS TIME AT POLE? WHAT DO YOU SAY?

HAVE you guessed yet? Or have you only idle guessing aside and undertaken to figure it out? When it is 12 o'clock noon in Boston what time is it at the North Pole? That is the question.

It is quite as engrossing as the question: "Did Cock o' Peary reach the North Pole first?" Many of those who have taken a day at it have given very learned dissertations on the problem, but they haven't settled it by any means.

Just to make it more interesting the BOSTON AMERICAN is offering $5 for the best guess and $1 to each of the next five guesses. Here are some of the opinions submitted:

MAKES TWO GUESSES.

BIG CROWDS GREET DRAPER AT BROCKTON

BROCKTON, Oct. 8.—Today, "Governor's Day" and "Firemen's Day," is the great day of the Brockton Fair. By noon it was estimated that a crowd little short of 100,000 persons were on the grounds and they were still coming from every direction.

At 9 o'clock the parade of the different companies of Veteran Firemen began. The firemen had been shipping in the tubs all night. Many of them came yesterday and they were being sent into the fair grounds during the night. Some of the machines were hauled many miles by horses.

A large crowd of spectators was already stretched around the ring by the time that the first company of old-fashioned firemen started out with their tub. The playout began as soon as the parade of the contesting company was finished.

Governor Arrives.

Governor Draper, Lieutenant Governor Frothingham and the Governor's staff arrived at 11:30 and were met at the railroad station by the reception committee, representing the city of Brockton and the Brockton Agricultural Association. The Tenth Company, Coast Artillery Corps, Captain George Horton, acted as guard of honor to Governor Draper and met him at the station.

The Governor and his official family were driven to the Commercial Club, where luncheon was served at 12 o'clock. At 1 o'clock the Governor and staff left for the Fair Grounds in thirteen carriages. They entered the enclosure in Forest avenue and were driven around the track while the Governor's salute of seventeen guns was fired.

The Tenth Company of Coast Artillery was guard of honor while the three bands consolidated and led the parade around the track to the judges' stand where the Governor and his official family were escorted to private boxes.

In the Marathon.

In the first carriage rode Governor Draper, Governor George H. Prouty of Vermont, Brigadier General William H. Brigham and Charles Howard, president of the Brockton Agricultural Association.

In the second carriage were Lieutenant Governor Frothingham, Brigadier General William B. Emery, Rear Admiral N. M. Dyer, and Walter Kupy, chairman of the reception committee.

In the other carriages were Brigadier General James G. White, Frank L. Erskine, President Richard C. MacLaurin of Technology, John S. Keith, Samuel Cole, Colonel William J. Capelle, Secretary of State William M. Olin, Major Philip R. Sears, Walter S. Glidden, Curtis H. Barrett, Attorney General Dana Malone, Major Jay Murchie, Colonel W. H. Doty, Fred Pacl, and Dr. Horace A. Keith, Captain Ralph Blake, Major John Bigelow, Jr., and others.

The second annual Brockton Marathon race is run this afternoon. The contestants from the Boston Athletic Association headquarters in Essex street, Boston.

Miss Margaret Foley and a number of college girl suffragists are expected here today in their motor car seeking signers for their petition for votes for women.

There are 2,000 entries in the poultry exhibit this year. This is 400 more than any previous exhibit. There are 575 individual exhibitors.

CLOTHING SALE GREAT SUCCESS

The opening sale of Winter clothing is now on at the Continental Clothing House, at No. 751 Washington street, corner of Boylston. The public has crowded the big store to inspect and buy from one of the largest stocks ever offered in New England.

Much interest was taken in this sale because the Continental has been regarded as a standard concern for many years, and it stated in its announcement regarding this sale:

"The Continental invites you to their opening sale of good clothes—the best ever gotten together under one roof. We know we have the correct style ideas."

The stock on the counters for this sale includes many suits or garments which careful buyers will doubtless state will be pronounce bargains. There are correct suits ranging in price from $10 to $25, 900 Fall suits on sale at $15, and a special suit bargain for $12.75, and clothing for boys at prices which ought to attract the eyes of parents.

In the children's department the Continental is giving a Wilson Bros. Dilson Rugby football to each customer who makes a purchase of $5 or over.

One line of goods which is attracting much attention is the Alfred Benjamin overcoat for men of all sizes. These garments sell at $15, $18, $20, $22.50, $25 and $30 each. The store is open Saturday evenings.

BARS CHILDREN; LANDLORD SUED

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—Boelia P. Longenecker has filed a suit in the Municipal Court to test a State law which went into effect July 1, and which forbids landlords to refuse to rent flats to families with children. R. F. Shenck is the agent of Boelsin, of whom Longenecker rents. He has been living at the place for several years, but when he sought to renew the lease he says Boelsin refused to sign it because there were two children in the family.

BOSTON MAN TAKEN ON THEFT CHARGE

Charged with stealing checks and money to the amount of $1,350 from various department stores in Boston, Edward Stuber, thirty years old, formerly a bookkeeper who had passes of business in Boston and Cambridge, was arrested by the New York police for the Boston authorities on an indictment warrant issued this city. The arrest was made as a result of information sent to the local authorities by Deputy Inspector Watts, and Inspector Cronin.

SEND SUBMARINES TO THE NAVY YARD

The Narwhal, the first of the submarine boats to be delivered to the Charlestown Navy Yard by the Electric Boat Company of Quincy, has arrived at the yard. The submarine boats Tarpon, Stingray, Bonita, Sunfish, Grayling and Salmon will be sent there shortly.

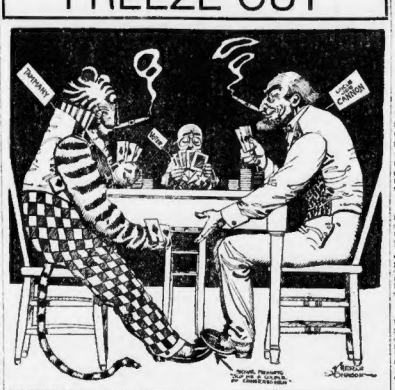
"FREEZE OUT"



HEARST REPLIES TODAY TO REQUEST THAT HE TAKE THE NOMINATION

(By the New York City News Association, the local bureau of the Associated Press).

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The committee delegated by the unanimous meeting at Cooper Union, Wednesday night to notify William Randolph Hearst that he was its unanimous choice as candidate for Mayor, formally notified him of the action of the meeting at his house at Riverside Drive and Eighty-sixth street yesterday after noon.

It was intimated to Mr. Hearst that whether he accepted or not, the independent voters represented by the committee and the Cooper Union meeting would not vote for Judge Gaynor. After the committee's address Mr. Hearst said:

Gentlemen—I suppose that you have given due consideration to the suggestions that I made to you and to all my friends through the press. I should, in propriety, avoid speaking, and I shall give due consideration to the recommendations you have made to me. I may, however, that to my mind the main objection and perhaps the only one to Judge Gaynor is the fact that in his campaign he is allied with the most atrocious crowd of soiled and damaged political rags and tinsel that have ever been exposed for sale upon the bargain counters of Tammany Hall.

I think it your duty to defeat that Tammany ticket. I think it is your duty and my duty, and the duty of every honest citizen to prevent the infliction of such a ticket upon this city.

Will Reply To-Day.

I have had several suggestions made to me to that end. If you will allow me a few hours' time, I will give your recommendations a careful and thought, my most careful consideration and I will send you a formal reply to-morrow.

In any event I wish to thank my friends most deeply for their confidence and to express my heartfelt appreciation of the great honor they have extended to me for the second time.

The members of the committee included James A. Allen, who presided at the Cooper Union meeting and who was spokesman of the party; Dr. J. H. Rank, Sylvester L. Malone, William A. Coakley, Dr. William I. Sturges, Dr. Joseph H. Byrne, William J. Taylor and Cyril Loughlin. They were accompanied to Mr. Hearst's home by Chairman Clarke, secretary of the Independence League County Committee.

Chairman Allen, surrounded by the other members of the committee, expressed Mr. Hearst as the latter stood, with bowed head, listening attentively to an appeal for his acceptance of the nomination.

Named As People's Candidate.

Mr. Allen, after expressing the sense of duty and the deep feeling of the committee said:

At a mass meeting at Cooper Union, notwithstanding your previously expressed determination not to again become a candidate and particularly not to become a candidate in the pending campaign, you were unanimously nominated as the people's candidate for Mayor of New York, and pursuant to that mandate of that assemblage and on its behalf and on behalf of the great citizenship of this city, we are here to-day to notify you of such nomination and earnestly to ask that you accept the commanding trust tendered.

This assemblage was not called together on of any partisan or selfish motive. It was a spontaneous expression of the people of this city for the necessity of a real citizen's ticket. It was not a partisan meeting. Assembled there were men of all parties.

All eyes turned to you as the great exponent of popular sovereignty and of popular rights and as the only man in this community who can meet the democratic Tammany Hall ring on even ground and who can redeem our city from those who have plundered and despoiled it, and who seek to continue to plunder and to despoil it.

FROHMAN HOPES FOR SECRECY

RENO, Nev., Oct. 8.—Bert Reese, Daniel Frohman's private detective, will soon pay this city a visit, according to information received from New York. While here he is to talk with Margaret Illington Frohman, who is here for the purpose of securing a divorce from the famous theatrical manager. Reese is to endeavor to influence her to leave out certain matters concerning the life of Daniel Frohman when she appears in court. This is information sent to Nevada from an Eastern metropolis. It is stated that Reese has recently gone to San Francisco and will come to this city from the coast in a few days.

HORNETS SPUR CAR TO RECORD TRIP

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 8.—Angry hornets with long stings put a trolley car crew to flight and blocked traffic half an hour on the South Orange and Maplewood line. Edward Smith, motorman, and Martin Hines, conductor, ran a Marathon with hornets in pursuit. All local records were smashed. At the finish Smith and Hines looked like the bumper bumps at Coney Island. "It's a good thing for the company one of those hornets didn't sting our car on the rear dashboard," Smith said recalls as he declined a chair. "If it had the car would have been going yet."

ONE KILLED, TWO INJURED IN AUTO

KENOSHA, Wis., Oct. 8.—Harry J. Gibson, tester for the T. B. Jeffery Company, was instantly killed and Mrs. Gibson accident on a lonely road eighteen miles west of Kenosha early to-day. Edward Vollier Thomas, an automobile racer, was fatally injured, and Mrs. Arthur Gardiner, wife of the bicycle racer, was also hurt.

TWO SENT TO CHAIR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Fred Schlemer and Celso Gitto were to-day sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing for killing Mrs. Sophie Staber, after robbing her Brooklyn home.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

In view of the advance in the Bank of England rate, and the relatively poor statement made by the institution, it is felt that there is little probability of getting gold from London, and the view is accepted that the money situation is not likely soon to be relieved by the lessening of speculation. The tendency of the market, under the circumstances, is regarded with real satisfaction.

Unless the shifting of loans and other expedients are resorted to by national banks and trust companies an unfavorable statement is regarded as certain. A Treasury deposit of $1,000,000 in cash with New York banks for account of the Treasury of the Philippine Islands somewhat improved the outlook by lessening the drain of cash on the week's movements. Call loan rates fluctuate between 4 and 5 per cent., but the tender of $10,000,000 by one institution has eased the market.

For instance, it became known late yesterday that Morgan & Company loaned $10,000,000 to brokers Wednesday who would be forced to buy Steel with the money. It was this Morgan lending that turned the market when Steel hit 87½, and made a quick rebound. The Morgan firm did not hesitate to advise purchase of Steel, even though it was known around the elect that two directors of the trust had become satisfied with their profits and sold out all their speculative lines. It was remembered in mitigation of this fact that one of these directors was bearish on Steel at 42 last February and told the other sold out his stock several times on the way up and repurchased it in every instance at a loss.

The parting blow of the bears consists of a statement that there must be a lull in Steel orders very soon because Winter will check building operations and reduce the demand for structural material. This is a fact, but the trust is so far ahead on its orders for structural material that it will have enough to keep its mills busy until fresh orders begin to come in at mid-Winter.

After one writes of steel and call money, the rest of the stock market is a mere accident. Leaving out Steel, there are best no speculation of importance lately, and there is no problem in State Street to confront in many directions there is evidence of first-class buying of good stocks, and especially of Steel. There is no new change in the harmonious relations existing between the ascended Morgan and standard Oil groups. If anything, there has been any change at all the death of E. H. Harriman has brought them closer together, for Harriman made nearly as much trouble as money.

Bankers in responsible positions refuse to say that the reaction will extend no further. There is a genuine scarcity of subscriptions in the Street. This is being fostered by the market leaders. Disclosure of buying power of investment capital which will help along this good feeling.

Additional dividend increases are expected, earnings of Central Leather support payment of 4 per cent. dividend. A higher rate on "Panhandle," probably 5 per cent., is also expected, and Reading & Western, according to inner circles, is to pay 5 per cent. also. Car Foundry and American Steel Foundries are also expected to make important announcements before the end of the year relative to additional disbursements. It is expected that Steel will add a quarterly distribution among stockholders in addition to increasing the dividend at the next quarterly meeting.

Bullish sentiment is expressed on Great Northern ore in well-informed quarters, and it is asserted that development work had been carried sufficiently far to permit the taking out of enormous quantities of ore in the next year.

The buying of New York Central is regarded as very good. It came through the same channels as the buying that had first started the movement from about 135, and was supported by the traders to represent a phrase of their interest by members of the Vanderbilt family.

There is no improvement noticeable in the coppers. The Copper Producers' Association at its meeting next Monday is expected to make an even more unfavorable showing than the preceding month. This had the effect of depressing trading in the metal shares. Copper is weak on the sales of the Atlantic, and reports of accumulation in the West are not encouraging.

Statements made here regarding the Steel trade and the money rate are based on general observations and do not disclose the situation in the highest officials in the Steel and banking world. These statements are the views of the stock markets is inevitable. There is this reason for these statements being true, because they come from so many sources, and it is accurate.

Steel and Union Pacific furnish half of the business in the stock market, and the way these shares are taken in large blocks indicates a willingness on the part of somebody to get loaded up with them. Speculation in the market is more quiet, but seems to be determined. New York Central is well taken, and indefinite rumors of a dividend increase grew out of the large earnings being reported.

STOCKS FIRM IN WALL ST.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Stocks opened strong and active in Wall Street to-day under leadership of Union Pacific, New York Central and Missouri, Kansas & Texas.

The reason for the strength of Union Pacific and New York Central are unknown.

Missouri, Kansas & Texas was said to be sought for the account of the St. Paul road, which was seeking to get control of the property, thus giving it an outlet to Pacific through the acquisition of the Southern Pacific. Later in the day, however Missouri, Kansas & Texas declined on the report that the St. Paul deal is buying control in the market is completed, but officials of the St. Paul has never denied this report.

The pool in Central Leather continued its operations but not on as heavy a scale as yesterday. They marked the price up nearly one point during the early trading to-day.

Other stocks to show strength were Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Reading and Wabash preferred. At the end of the first half hour of trading a general selling movement overcame the market and under leadership of Steel, average declines of on point were recorded. In many instances net losses from the closing American shares were strong in London. Chicago Subway was heavy in the New York curb market and Larose declined a fraction. Other mining stocks were not materially changed.

THE BATTLES WE HAVE FOUGHT AND WON

THE San Francisco Examiner was reorganized in 1885 by the present proprietor.

From the day of its birth it carried at its masthead—the top of its editorial page—the public and private policies for which it stood.

These policies were not inherited, nor were they hastily assumed. They were the result of patient and deliberate consideration of foreign and domestic affairs. They represented matured convictions, and their well-considered adoption carried the unexpressed but fully implied pledge of the proprietor to fight for them through good and evil report, through storm of protest and through sunshine of approval, to the end of the political chapter which held them.

That was twenty-four years ago. Since then the New York American, the New York Journal, Das Morgen-Journal, the Chicago Examiner, the Chicago American, the Los Angeles Examiner and the Boston American have been added to the San Francisco Examiner to make up the series of Hearst newspapers covering the continent.

All of these newspapers, without variableness or shadow of turning, have advocated with all their might through TWO DECADES the platform of principles originally flung from the masthead of the San Francisco Examiner.

When these policies were first proclaimed they were almost universally denounced as revolutionary, anarchistic and vile. POLITICAL OSTRACISM WAS THE PART OF THE PIONEER ADVOCATE, AND YELLOW JOURNALISM THE EPITHET APPLIED TO THE NEWSPAPER.

The Hearst newspapers have survived to see almost every single principle of its 1885 platform endorsed by an educated and enlightened public opinion, its earnest advocacies of twenty-four years ago incorporated into the platforms of the two older parties, and PUBLIC MEN, who in that earlier day ANTAGONIZED AND BITTERLY DENOUNCED these foreign and domestic policies, NOW EAGERLY ENROLLED AS CANDIDATES ADVOCATING THEIR ADOPTION as essential to the welfare of the Government and the States.

Twenty-four years ago the San Francisco Examiner, and later the other papers, as attested by their files, led the leading American newspapers in earnest, vigorous and persistent advocacy of the Isthmian Canal. The Canal, after tremendous opposition, is now a progressing and conceded fact.

These newspapers demanded from the first, and almost alone, the annexation of Hawaii, they demanded the war; they demanded the acquisition of territory in the West Indies, and the retention of all the Philippines, not as imperial provinces, but as an integral part of the country. EACH OF THESE DEMANDS IS NOW WRITTEN IN THE HISTORY OF THE COUNTRY.

In that vast national struggle against the iniquity of the criminal trusts no honest man in or out of journalistic ranks will deny that these newspapers stood in the very forefront of the battle, and led every charge that has established the bettered conditions of to-day.

An Attorney-General of the United States has thanked these newspapers for "superbly marshalled evidence" in proceeding against selfish corporate aggression. President Roosevelt immediately followed this evidence by his first campaign against the Northern Securities merger, and the Government, in its suit for the abolition of the Coal Trust, proceeded exactly along the lines publicly mapped out by Mr. Hearst and his attorney.

The Hearst Railroad Rate bill, presented in the Fifty-eighth Congress as a minority report by Lamar, of Florida, and Shackleford, of Missouri, overshadowed the Democratic subterfuge known as the Davey bill, and was actually presented in two sections by the Republicans as the Esch-Townsend bill, passed in the House and killed in the Senate. President Roosevelt later, in a special message to Congress, advocated in detail every provision of this Hearst House Bill, Number 13,778, and then foolishly permitted Congressman Hepburn, of Iowa, to present and pass it as his own, robbed of its very strongest feature in the provision looking to an interstate commerce court.

RECENTLY, IN IOWA, PRESIDENT TAFT FRANKLY AND FEARLESSLY ATTACKED THE HEPBURN BILL AS IMPOTENT AND USELESS WITHOUT THE OMITTED HEARST CLAUSE OF THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COURT, AND GAVE THE SECOND EMPHATIC PRESIDENTIAL INDORSEMENT TO THE HEARST RATE BILL ENTIRE, as presented on March 11, 1904!

The graduated income tax advocated by these newspapers against tremendous opposition for so many years, earnestly and without co-operation, has now gone to the country as a constitutional amendment urged by the President, and formally presented by Congress to the States.

The issue of Direct Nominations, including the election of Senators by the people, for whose championship these papers were so long denounced, is now the central advocacy and shibboleth of the Republican Governor of New York, although like Hepburn with the Rate bill, he presents the issue robbed of its essential effectiveness and force.

For a full decade the Hearst papers have stood foremost and almost alone among American newspapers in the demand for a STRONGER NAVY AND A VIGOROUS MERCHANT MARINE. President Roosevelt, in his term of office, put the whole force of his official influence into an indorsement of the appeal for a stronger navy, which is now progressing, and President Taft, at Seattle, flung the full strength and power of his illustrous advocacy into a demand for a genuine and vital merchant marine.

THE VICTORIES OVER THE COAL TRUST, AND THE ICE TRUST, AND THE GAS MONOPOLY OF NEW YORK ARE A PART OF THE STANDARD HISTORY OF THE METROPOLIS.

During the five years of its existence, the Boston American has advocated and secured many benefits for the people. To-day the price of gas in Boston is eighty cents per thousand cubic feet. The company furnishing the gas is bound, under the act creating it, to render the very best service. Previous to the agitation by the Boston American for cheaper gas and improved service the consumers had never been charged less than $1.00, and the poor character of the service was notorious. The American filed a petition that set the legislation in motion. It aroused the public interest. It presented the case of the petitioners for relief to the Legislature. In a word, THE AMERICAN WON THE GREAT GAS FIGHT IN BOSTON, as a result of which the people enjoy a BETTER SERVICE and a LOWER RATE than any city in the State.

The American has constantly advocated the policy of municipal ownership. As a result of this campaign of education, there is a healthy sentiment in the community favoring this policy which is growing more substantial day by day.

The Boston American's fight for the Overtime Bill was largely responsible for the success of that measure. For a decade the textile operatives had petitioned the Legislature for a law to prevent women and minors from working in the mills during the night time. Year after year it was defeated. In 1907 the American exposed and denounced the defeat of this bill by the combined lobby at the State House. Insisting that the overtime bill be made an issue in the next campaign and that only those in favor of it be elected to the Legislature, the American so sturdily maintained the fight that, in 1908, THE OVERTIME BILL BECAME A LAW.

Before the advent of the Boston American no voice was raised against the iniquitous State House lobby. Since then, through continued disclosures by the American of lobby methods, a great deal of vicious legislation has been prevented and the lobby question is to-day before the people as one of the PRINCIPAL PLANKS of the platform of one of the political parties, which demands its extirpation from the halls of the Legislature.

The American has sharply fought attempts at railroad monopoly in New England all along the line. It vigorously opposed the proposed law which would have allowed the consolidation of steam railroads and street railways. It has fought proposed railroad mergers, and, while one merger was finally brought about through the medium of a holding company, it is surrounded by many safeguards of the public interest urged by this newspaper.

With every other newspaper in the city opposing him and supported only by the Boston American, the late John B. Moran was twice elected District Attorney of Suffolk County, and instituted many of the prosecutions that have resulted in graft convictions.

What fair and honest American, in the face of these wholesale and magnificent conversions and achievements will begrudge to the Hearst newspapers the satisfaction which comes to a vindicated judgment and patriotism!

And who so small and captious as to carp at the right won, through patient and persistent fighting, to recount the battles and to publicly rejoice in the victory!

SAY FEAD, I THINK WE'D BETTER HAVE A GENERAL WASH-UP BEFORE PERRY GETS BACK. WE'LL USE THE BATH TUB FOR SOAKING THE CLOTHES IN.
WHEN IS HE DUE? NEXT WEEK ISN'T HE?
HELLO BOYS - I GOT BACK A LITTLE AHEAD OF TIME - WHERE HAS ALL MY CHUMS GONE TO? I HAVEN'T HAD A DECENT SPUDE SINCE I LEFT THE CITY!
I THOUGHT YOU WEREN'T COMING BACK TILL NEXT WEEK
IT'S THOSE CONFOUNDED PORTERS. TURN YOUR BACK A MINUTE AND THEY'RE INTO SOMETHING
GREAT GUNS! NOT A CLEAN COLLAR OR A SHIRT TO WEAR. I SAY HALL-ROOM, HAVE YOU BEEN MAKING LOVE TO MY LINEN?
GREAT CATS! HAVE YOU BEEN USING MY RAZOR FOR A BREAD KNIFE?
WHAT'S THIS? A FREE LUNCH COUNTER? IT'S A WONDER YOU FELLOWS WOULDN'T CLEAR UP AFTER YOU. GUESS I'LL TAKE A TUB. IT WILL MAKE ME FEEL BETTER. TRAVELLING ON A TRAIN SOILS ONE UP SO.
ZOUNDS! MAKING MY BATH TUB INTO A LAUNDRY, SAY HALL-BOY - THIS IS GOING TOO FAR. I CAME BACK NONE TO SOON. YOU FELLOWS HAD BETTER GET BACK TO YOUR OLD QUARTERS AGAIN.

PARADES DON'T COST ANYTHING!
GRAND PARADE HISTORIC FLOATS
DID YOU GET SEATS IN A STAND, DEAR?
STAND,— NOTHING! THEY WANT 5 AND 10 DOLLARS FOR THE STAND SEATS.
WANT A BOX TO STAND ON? ONLY $1.
THINK I'M MADE OF MONEY?
IT'S AN OUTRAGE, BUT I SPOSE I'LL HAVE TO PAY IT!
WANT A BOX TO STAND ON, BOSS? ONLY A QUARTER!
HADN'T WE BETTER GET ANOTHER BOX, DEAR?
WE CAN'T AFFORD TO SPEND ANOTHER QUARTER! I'LL SEE THE FIRST HALF OF THE PARADE AND YOU CAN SEE THE REST!
THERE! THE BOX IS BROKEN! THAT'S FOR BUYING A CHEAP ONE!
WHERE'S THAT YOUNG SWINDLER I WANT MY QUARTER BACK!

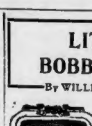
LITTLE BOBBIE'S PA

By WILLIAM F. KIRK



ALL that Pa cud say wen he cum hoam last nite was "Marvelus, Marvelus!" Wat is the matter with yu, sed Ma. Wat is so marvelus? Where hav yu ben for three (3) days?

I was over in Nu York watching Mister Wilbur Wright fly in his ary-plane, sed Pa. The city editor told me to go over there & rite a story about it. I rode my story quick sed Bobgraft it beekaus it wasent a long or hard story to rite. This is all I rote:

The thousands loked upward with a gasp. There was a whir of white wings, & the wundrus craft vanished into the fog.

Do you think that story is a good story? sed Ma. I dont see why they shud kick, sed Pa, wen I git paid by the word. I am not a money grabber, Pa sed, like Bwana Tumbo, wich also gits paid by the word. I dident describe the hat that I wore, or the overcoat I just got out of hock. Wat is the matter with my story? sed Pa. Yu see, sed Pa, to begin with, I am not a ary-plane feend. It may be that a ary-plane is a grate thing, but too much depends on circumstances. All last week, excep one (1) day, the weather was fine, but Mister Wright used to wet his finger & hold it up in the sky. He did that every day last week, while countless thousands from Littleton, N. H., & Portland, Maine & Cohasset looked & waited & watched in vain. Aha, Mister Wright wud say, the way the wind blows around the wet wurt on my second finger indicates that there is a big wind up on Broadway & the way my eyes water shows that the breeze around the Flatiron Building is numbing fierce. There will be no flight to-day. Back to the shed.

That is why I am not so keen for the ary-planes, sed Pa. You see, Pa sed, that if ary-planes is ever going to carry passengers from place to place, they must find sum way to dis-regard the wind. Good hevings, Pa sed, if they are going to be at the mercy of the wind, what use wud a ary-plane have taking passengers around Boston harbor? Suppose a man wanted to go from Boston to New York, to see the Red Sox trim the Giants, & suppos there was jest time to catch the ary-plane, & the man who runs the ary-plane shud sniff the breese & say, The breese from the harbor clearly indicates that we had better go & see the Boston Nashuaal Leag team.

But I think it is wunderful, Ma sed, the way Mister Wright's ary-plane dipped & roso & curved in majestick circles.

That is nothing, sed Pa. A house fly can do that, & a house fly hesent trade to take a chanst. Did you ever watch one (1) of them deer littel insecks start from the bald island on my hed & sail cleer to the other end of the tabel, circling the sugar bowl & returning safely to said island?

I think it is a shame the way you talk about a hero, sed Ma.

No wonder, you think so, sed Pa. You & Mister Wilbur Wright ought to be grate friends, beekaus both of you are always reddy to go up into the air.

THE LIBRARY LOAFER

By ELBERT HUBBARD

UP to this time literature seems to have made no note of the library loafer. And now that Fall is coming on and the steam heat will soon be turned on to keep out the chill, and lest the worthy loafer deem himself slighted, I will say a few words concerning him.

Wherever the free library exists there does he gather himself together. He is on hand early in the morning and remaineth until the lights are extinguished. He reads and reads and reads, and mouses over magazines, yea, no one ever calleth him learned, lovely, wise or good.

No one ever refers or defers to him. Whether he regards knowledge to soak into his being by the handling of books and breathing the air of book shelves, or whether he merely wishes to get warm, no one knoweth.

The public library is a beautiful and beneficent thing, but that one-half of the daily readers at public libraries are library loafers the librarian knoweth to the wakening of his head.

The L. L. is harmless and would be unobjectionable were it not for the fact that he labors an air of reverence by use. His nerve lathes and chain items with him in an ungodly. You can scent every tail film by the odor—he smells like a gymnasium.

And one is fain to believe that the L. L. sleeps with his day clothes on by a beer dive, so redolent is he with the fumes.

I have pictured the pure type of literary loafer—the habitue who is too deferential to bounce and not good enough to encourage, and so is just tolerated. But the cult shades off, however, by almost imperceptible degrees, into men who have no occupation and are too lazy to find one, and who infest the library and taveat it with their odor of sanctity in a forlorn hope that within the sacred walls wisdom will trickle into them for the pores of knowledge and lodgment on their garments. These are the people who give the librarian that fine scorn for his clientele and cause him to bubble over with irony when you talk about educating the masses.
